London, UK ? Today?s unconventional brides mixing old world traditions with modern wedding elements for sometimes stunning results that truly make the day their own. In keeping with their mission to educate photographers, Pixcellence (www.pixcellence.co.uk) has just published a new blog post entitled 'Asian Wedding Photography Captures the Mix of Modern and Traditional'.

?A skilled wedding photography director will keep distinctive traits like these in mind when conceptualising your photo shoots,? states Clwyd Probert, one half of the Pixcellence photography team. ?Your qualities, preferences, and family customs would also be crucial when taking photos throughout the wedding festivities. The professional can craftily use a reportage style to immortalise your memories and the intricate parts of your wedding without getting in the way of your rituals and celebrations, especially if you?re more of a candid bride.?

The article also discusses the recent wedding of Indian model, actress, producer, and 2000 Miss Asia Pacific International titleholder, Dia Mirza to fellow film producer Sahil Sangha, Mirza. She infused her heritage and Vedic wedding plans with Arya Samaj rituals. The rituals spread lasted four days with the couple tying the knot at a farmhouse in Chattarpur.

?If your celebrations will be filled with age-old Hindu traditions and elements alongside modern or unique ones,? stated Probert, ?make sure your photographer is familiar with them and is experienced in documenting similar events.?

Pixcellence offers coaching courses to help photographers of all levels improve their photographic talents teaching photographic techniques and educating the public about cross-cultural wedding customs.
