November 11, 2015 -
Govivo is proud to announce that they have launched their new running belt with water bottle also known as a hydration belt. The company is committed to meeting the needs of runners, bikers or hikers who want to easily remain hydrated during a workout, and this particular running belt is designed to meet all those needs. The product is the latest addition to the Govivo selection of athlete supporting running belts, with the previous two being the double pocket running belt and the running belt for large size smartphones. Since its release, the new running belt has already been positively received.

"We are a family owned and operated business that focuses on helping people stay comfortable during workouts," says the Media Director at Govivo. "Each of our running belts offers some unique advantages, with this latest one focusing mainly on hydration. We expect it to be as popular as our previous models, which continue to sell well."

The belt comes with three individual pouches to keep belongings safe. The large main pouch can fit an iPhone 6+ and the small pouch within the main pocket is perfect for credit cards. The smaller pocket can hold keys and running gel. It also includes two BPA-free 9 oz. water bottles.

The lightweight fabric of the main pocket is made to be cool on the body and the water-resistant zipper will keep a wallet and money dry even when they are next to the water bottle holsters. The belt offers peace of mind that personal belongings are concealed and secure. Its elastic waistband strap can easily be adjusted so the user obtains the most comfortable fit thus eliminating bouncing and chafing.

"The hydration belt is not just for running," adds the Media Director, "it can be a utility pack for kids, teens, and adults alike. It can also be used for hunting, fishing, cross training, running a marathon, or cycling."

The company offers a wide variety of products which can be found on the Amazon marketplace. More about them, and the list of products that they offer, can be seen on their official website.
