Fusion Foot & Ankle in Fort Worth, TX, is offering those suffering from plantar warts the Saorsa Swift Microwave System for a quick, clean, and painless treatment of the condition. Readers can find out more about the Fort Worth podiatrist clinic by heading over to its website at <https://www.fusionfoot.com/>.

Plantar warts are caused by HPV, the Human Papilloma Virus. They manifest in the form of hard and scaly growths on the bottom of the feet, typically on the heels and other load-bearing areas. A common way for the virus to enter the body is through cuts on the bottom of the feet, especially if the person walks barefoot in areas where the virus may be present. Some of the common symptoms of plantar warts include pain or tenderness while walking, a lesion that interrupts the ridges in the skin of the foot, small fleshy lesions on the bottom of the foot, or a callus where a wart has grown inward over a well-defined spot on the skin.

The Saorsa Swift Microwave Treatment System is a solution for treating plantar warts that uses the unique properties of microwave energy to increase tissue temperatures to target the root cause of the issue. The system comes with a compact generator that delivers a precise, highly controlled energy dose to a pre-determined depth into the skin. The depth to which the microwaves penetrate the skin is precisely controlled allowing the system to target only the infected cells, leaving any healthy tissue completely unharmed. This is a welcome change compared to other techniques of treating plantar warts such as cryotherapy, salicylic acid, laser ablation, and excision.

A spokesperson for Fusion Foot & Ankle describes the advantages of the Saorsa Swift Microwave System compared to traditional methods of treating plantar warts by saying, "Cryotherapy, the most popular method of treating plantar warts requires the use of liquid nitrogen to freeze cells and form a blister around plantar warts. The technique, though not invasive, can require anesthesia and it also requires dressing up the wound after the procedure. Salicylic acid and laser ablation treatments are equally damaging to the tissues of the foot that are not affected by plantar warts. The Saorsa Swift Microwave Treatment solves all of these problems and is thus the preferred method of treating plantar warts for the many podiatric clinics around the country where it is currently being offered. The technology developed by Saorsa Inc. got its start in 2019 and has already received universal acclaim from medical professionals for its ease of use, shortened operating times, and pain-free results. We highly encourage you to try the treatment for yourself if you are currently suffering from plantar warts and are looking for the best available option to remedy your condition.
