April 21, 2022 -
April 2022: Gov Relations presents a new report that reveals free car repair assistance programs for people in need of financial aid. The report was compiled by the company?s experts and released amid the rising inflation in the US. The article was published on Gov Relations? website to highlight the programs offering assistance. The full report can be found here.

In March of 2022, the US inflation rate accelerated to 8.5%, the highest rate since December 1981 compared with market expectations of 8.4%. Car care and repair costs have also skyrocketed due to the rising cost of daily living. A variety of organizations help those in need access to community resources. Several groups, charities, and organizations offer financial assistance to eligible individuals who require car maintenance or repairs. This publication aims to address the need for financial car repair assistance.

According to Gov Relations, the report was produced after in-depth research by their experts. The report's primary focus is on the groups and organizations that can provide car repair assistance. This article further discusses specialized auto repair resources aimed at people who belong to certain groups. The experts in the report explained how these organizations help people financially. The report was published as part of their regular research on financial assistance programs.
