May 02, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Greenscapes Landscaping & Retaining Walls, a landscaping contractor based in Asheville, NC, is happy to announce that they are now also offering demolition contractor services in Asheville and neighboring areas with competitive prices. They have the expertise and the experience with regards to home and commercial demolition and they are ready to handle any demolition project, whether large or small. They can perform demolition services for houses, commercial buildings, mobile homes, and other structures efficiently and quickly.

Ryan Endres, owner of Greenscapes Landscaping & Retaining Walls, says, "As a demolition contractor, we are committed to providing our clients with the best possible service. We will work with you to develop a demolition plan that meets your needs and budget. Contact us today to schedule a consultation. During the on-site property assessment, we'll take you through the whole process and determine what exactly we need to get the job done effectively and efficiently. If you are rebuilding after the removal, we can level the area to help your builder."

There are a number of factors that have to be considered in estimating the costs of demolishing a house. It would be a good idea for the homeowner to consider first whether the old house will be replaced with a new one. If not, then it will be necessary to also consider the cost of any permits that may be needed in order to demolish the property. The basic things to consider when budgeting for a demolition are: the size of the house; the location of the property; any health hazards; permits needed before tearing down the house; and ease of access to the location. And they want to point out that a typical home demolition will cost from $2,000 to $20,000.

There are a number of steps to take for homeowners who want to demolish a house. The first step is get the services of a demolition contractor. The next step is to set a date for the demolition. The third step is to have the demolition contractor dismantle and get rid of all exterior and interior walls of the house. The fourth step is to have the demolition contractor remove the windows, roof, and doors of the house. Next, the demolition contractor will remove all of the electrical wiring and plumbing from the house. The sixth step is to have the demolition contractor remove any remaining debris from the house. And finally, complete the demolition of the house.

Greenscapes Landscaping & Retaining Walls can also provide demolition services for unsafe structures, contaminated sites, mobile homes, and newly constructed homes or buildings. They can offer demolition services for structures that are now considered to be unsafe because of floods, fires, structural damage, or the age of the structure. These structures are generally considered to be a threat to public safety and they need to be demolished safely and quickly. They can also offer demolition services for contaminated sites, such as those buildings that contain asbestos or lead. They will safely remove the hazardous materials and then dispose of them properly so that the site or building will be safe and clean for future use.

Founded in 2001, Greenscapes Landscaping & Retaining Walls offers various kinds of services, such as retaining walls, demolition services, landscape design, decks, patios and seating spaces, waterfalls and ponds, and outdoor kitchens. Some of the projects they have done include the: Chimney Rock landscaping design that expanded backyard space for entertainment; landscaping transformation for backyard soil erosion landslide in Waynesville; outdoor stone kitchen and fire pit in Candler; river rock waterfall and boulder wall in Buncombe County; and more.
