

The Doodle Dynasty Announces New Report On How To Find The Right Goldendoodle Stud Service For Your Dog

May 03, 2022

SANTA CLARITA, CA - May 03, 2022 -
Santa Clarita, California. Thedoodledynasty.com has released a report on how to find the right goldendoodle stud for your breeding efforts. The report highlights all the factors that a person breeding for the first time should consider.

?The whole point of breeding is maintaining or improving a goldendoodles blood line. That is why you really need to do your homework prior to breeding you dog,? States Raul Meza, breeder at The Doodle Dynasty. ?Many new breeders wait until their dog is in heat before looking for a stud. That is a big mistake because the window of fertility is short so the breeders feel pressured to find a stud and may settle for one that is less desirable because the ran out of time.?

The report highlights what a goldendoodle stud service is and the different aspects that it entails. Reading it will likely introduce readers to important points that they may have not considered due to their lack of experience.

Important topics covered include the right questions to ask when interviewing a stud service; what a new breeder can expect when it comes to stud fees; as well as what the process of breeding with a stud service might look like.

According to the report, a new breeder can expect to visit the stud service at least three times. The first time would be to meet the stud and the owner to determine if they are a good fit. The other two visits would be for breeding services since the report recommends that the dogs have at least two ties to increase the change of pregnancy.

?According to certain reports, one successful tie can result in a 60% pregnancy success rate. Two ties can increase that percentage to above 80%,? states Meza. ?If you ae serious about breeding your goldendoodle then why take a chance with only one tie? You are already making an investment in this, we here at The Doodle Dynasty, always recommend investing in the second tie to increase your chances.?
