According to this release, "Contrary to modern heating systems, which use electricity, conventional fireplaces use wood or coal as fuel. When these materials burn, they rapidly release smoke and some other form of debris. These substances travel via your chimney to the external environment. As time passes by, the debris and soot accumulate on your chimney walls, and induce various unpleasant effects, like potential chimney fires and cardiovascular diseases. Therefore, chimney sweeping is necessary to prevent these undesirable and dangerous consequences. A chimney cleaning process has major benefits."
