For College Essay Help, a business in Oakland, CA, are proud to announce that they have now helped 1,000 children access college through their common app essay help service. Their service, which helps students write their college application essay, continues to be very popular and effective. The business is looking forward to helping their 2,000th prospective student.

"So many people struggle with writing their college application essay," says Lesley Quinn from For College Essay Help. "We are there to help them by offering tutoring and practical assistance on writing a compelling college essay. We are so happy to see that we have now helped 1,000 prospective students achieve their goals."

The company does not write essays on behalf of students. Rather, they show them how to write a college application essay themselves. This is achieved through a three step process. First, a brainstorming session will highlight the things that make an applicant unique. Second, the stories uncovered during the first step are matched to the essay prompts. Finally, the writing begins, during which time applicants are coached by Lesley Quinn in free writing. This has been shown to be a true formula for success.

"My time with you was extremely helpful and this is just what I needed to get the ball rolling," says one grad school applicant. "It is amazing how you are able to get to know someone in such a short period of time."

For Lesley Quinn, the work she does is about more than helping prospective students get into college. It is about them getting to know their personal strengths and learning essential skills, including essay writing specifically and free writing in particular. These are skills that they will frequently need in college and in their subsequent professional life as well.

"People often find that learning how to write a college application essay gives them skills they can use for life," adds Lesley Quinn. "I am proud to be of assistance in that, and to be at the forefront of improving educational attainment throughout our country."
