Atlanta, Georgia - May 23, 2022 -
Alexander Shunnarah Trial Attorneys is a leading name in personal injury law. The law firm has a reputable track record of helping truck accident victims get the justice they deserve against the at-fault party. Attorney Alexander Shunnarah, Founder and CEO of Alexander Shunnarah Trial Attorneys, explains important tips for victims after a truck accident in a recent blog. Being involved in an accident with an 18-wheeler, or other large commercial truck, can be a traumatic experience for everyone involved and often results in severe injuries for those in passenger vehicles.

The blog post outlines steps for accident victims after being injured in a truck crash to ensure compensation. The top Atlanta truck accident lawyer advises victims to call 911 immediately for medical attention and for the police to make an official report of the accident. Exchanging information with the truck driver is essential, as well as obtaining the contact information of any eyewitnesses.

The victim should not hesitate to ask for a copy of the police report, which contains crucial information related to the accident that the attorney can use to investigate the case. Additionally, the blog post lists essential details that the victim should collect from the truck driver and emphasizes the importance of collecting evidence and photos at the scene of the accident.

The truck accident attorney, Alexander Shunnarah, cautions victims against admitting fault or liability, adding, ?Even if you are partially responsible, there might be other factors that could reduce your liability, and an experienced lawyer will find and highlight these factors.? The blog emphasizes the importance of not saying anything other than facts to prevent the risk of damaging the settlement claim with statements that may be used against them.

The blog post also lists some crucial elements in a police report that an experienced truck accident lawyer will review to work with experts and investigators to help determine liability. Attorney Alexander Shunnarah and his team of personal injury attorneys have represented thousands of victims against insurance companies representing the truck driver and trucking company. Alexander Shunnarah Trial Attorneys is aware of insurance companies? aggressive defense tactics to blame the accident on the victim.

As experienced truck accident attorneys, Alexander Shunnarah Trial Attorneys is committed to protecting victims from aggressive insurance adjusters and helping victims recover the maximum compensation for their losses.

As soon as possible after the crash, a victim should be evaluated by a medical professional even if they don?t feel injured. The best personal injury trial attorney explains that some injuries have delayed symptoms that could remain hidden for some time, advising victims to seek immediate medical help to detect such injuries.

Alexander Shunnarah notes, ?Truck accident victims who seek medical attention immediately are more likely to make a complete physical recovery and full financial recovery.? The truck accident lawyer explains that medical records are important pieces of evidence, and any delay in treatment ?will allow the truck driver?s insurance company to argue that your injuries occurred at another time or that they aren?t severe.?

Experienced truck wreck lawyers understand the complexities of fighting an insurance company on behalf of victims. The lawyer will handle communications with insurance companies to prevent the victim from making critical errors that could harm the case.

Working with an Atlanta truck accident injury lawyer is the best way to receive the maximum compensation for injuries. A truck accident victim can discuss their case with a trusted team of personal injury attorneys by calling Alexander Shunnarah Trial Attorneys.
