New Braunfels, TX - May 25, 2022 -

Dr. Mark Hickman, MD, FACS, a surgeon in New Braunfels, TX, wants to emphasize that the procedure for reversal of vasectomy that he is offering at an affordable all-inclusive cost is now being used to fight the onset of male depression following the original procedure. Mental depression is a potential impact of vasectomy and symptoms may include recurring or continuous feelings of sadness or emptiness; outbursts of frustration and anger; loss of interest in the person?s typical daily activities; difficulty in falling asleep or staying asleep; and feelings of anxiety, restlessness and agitation. Depression may have also have an impact on cognitive functions, such as memory and concentration.

Depression after vasectomy may be due to regret in undergoing the procedure although oftentimes patients were satisfied with the procedure because it takes away the worry about unexpected pregnancies. However, is some cases, patients may have just been pressured by their partner. In such situations, men are more prone to develop depression and it may even affect their relationship. In other cases, the patient may feel less masculine because of the inability to produce children. This change in self-perception can result into depression, especially for those who already have some potential for depression or other mental health issues even before the procedure.

One of the ways to fight the onset of male depression following the original procedure is vasectomy reversal. Many patients who have undergone the reversal procedure provided by Dr. Hickman have reported their satisfaction in being able to get back to their more virile days and the lifting of the ?male fog.? Another thing that may cause emotional distress to men after undergoing vasectomy is chronic pain and a reversal is the usual treatment for post-vasectomy chronic pain.

Dr. Hickman is offering two all-inclusive affordable alternatives for the procedure. The first option is $3,300 and inclusive of an oral sedative and local anesthesia. The second alternative is $4,200 and will be performed with IV sedation that will be administered by a board certified anesthesiologist. Since they are all-inclusive costs, this ensures that there are no hidden fees. He also wants to help patients who are not residents of New Braunfels since he has been receiving patients from various places in Texas and also from Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, and many other states. He has set up exclusive arrangements with hotels in the area to provide a 50 percent discount on the cost of the hotel stay for his out of town patients.

Dr. Mark Hickman has more than 26 years of experience and has nurtured the reputation of being one of the leading minimally invasive surgeons in the country. With more 1,300 vasectomy reversals completed, he has long ago stopped counting pregnancies, and he has also performed correction procedures for several vasectomy reversals done by other providers with a significant amount of successes. And in agreement with his core values, he has decided to always offer a reversal procedure at an affordable cost.

Dr. Hickman obtained his medical degree from the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, TX, at the age of 23. He completed his general surgery residency at the University of Texas, for a duration of five years. And it was during this residency that he received vital knowledge about microsurgery that was done by plastic and reconstructive surgeons. He soon realized the many benefits of microsurgery, particularly when it offers a substantially reduced impact on the patient. Dr. Hickman began his own private practice in New Braunfels in 1988 and he came to be known as one of the pioneers in laparoscopic surgery. He was able to master the technique and applied it in his practice. He also taught minimally invasive surgery technique to other surgeons.
