

Real Estate Agency Explains Why Palm Springs Is a Great Option for Families

June 07, 2022

Palm Springs, California - June 07, 2022 -
Palm Springs Area Real Estate by Geoffrey Moore, a real estate agency based in Palm Springs, CA, wants to point out the reasons why Palm Springs is a great place for families.

A key advantage of the area is the weather because it has lots of sun and few rainy days and temperatures are in the mid-80s during the winter, which means a lot of opportunities for outdoor activities that can be exciting for every age and stage, including hiking at Indian Canyons, interactions with animals at the Living Desert Zoo and Gardens, and adventures in natural places of wonder like the San Andreas Fault.

People can also go to the Joshua Tree National Park, ride the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway, and more. For children of all ages, they can go to the Eldorado Polo Club, Palm Springs Air Museum, and more. And for those who plan to live in Palm Springs, there are many Palm Springs luxury homes and other styles of California homes to choose from.

In fact, Palm Springs is one of the best places to raise a family in the Palm Springs Area, according to Niche.com. It is a suburb that has 47,897 residents. It is located in Riverside County and offers residents a kind of dense suburban feel. Most residents in Palm Springs own their homes and there a many parks, coffee shops, and restaurants in the area. The public schools in this suburb are above average and there are many retirees living in this place. Palm Springs has a rating of A when it comes to ethnic and economic diversity and B- with regards to employment rates, cost of living, and job and business growth. The median home value is $389,800 and the median rent is $1,114.

Meanwhile, Palm Springs Area Real Estate is offering a number of common Mexican style architecture designs to consider for those who are planning to buy a home in Palm Springs. These Mexican style homes are valued for providing aesthetic and visual representations of contemporary Mexican urban styles, a colonial architecture legacy, and showcase the pre-colonial essence of adobe type homes. Examples of Mexican style homes available include the 5-bedroom home in Juarez Avenue, Palm Springs, CA with 5 full and 2 half bathrooms, and a floor area of 8,000 square feet and the 4-bedroom home in W Via Lola, Palm Springs, CA, with 5 full bathrooms and a floor area of 4,581 square feet.

Palm Springs Area Real Estate offers a way for home buyers to find the best California style homes in the area. These homes are unique in the way they have been designed and they can be very expensive, although there are excellent deals if one knows where to look. California style homes are usually made with some kind of Art Deco external appearance. There are several variations of the California style home but what is consistent with all of them is that they tend to have a very open look, which is understandable because of the good weather outside. These homes usually have verandas and may also have big courtyards that make them appear almost Mediterranean in style.
