Las Vegas- based, Xibit Solutions, who has been designing building trade show booths for companies for over 20 years, has announced custom designed trade show booths, called Professional Trade Show rental booths, to assist the attendees of trade shows worldwide to present businesses in the most professional way and showcase their products and services in a manner that attracts everyone.

Trade shows are popular platforms for businesses to showcase their products and services in order to attract the perfect client base and shine a spotlight on their brand and business. Xibit Solutions feels that when trade show attendees are looking at the services offered by various vendors from specific industries, the professional presentation of a trade show booth becomes extremely important, and that a striking first impression is highly significant in showcasing any business at a trade show.

Xibit's Head of Marketing, Natasha Spinella, says that assisting businesses as they showcase their products and services at a trade show is their top goal. She said, "Xibit Solutions has been very successful for over two decades and continues to do so because they understand what consumers are looking for when they attend a trade show and how important it is for businesses to have an eye-catching, cutting edge presence." She further added that since cost for setting up such a professional tradeshow booth is a concern for the businesses, there are various price levels that Xibit Solutions offers based on a client's needs and goals. She explained this in detail in a video on Xibit Solutions' website.

While making the announcement, Spinella said that the Xibit Solutions production team is proud of their track record of designing custom exhibit booths for businesses attending trade shows. "Businesses have a lot to showcase, but few understand how to present all of their products, services and ideas within the provided space in a way that will be visually impressive," she said. That is where Xibit Solutions' experienced professional trade show booth designers come into play. She added, "With such professional trade show booths being introduced time to time, and with their years of successful experience in representing businesses presentation at trade shows, they know exactly how to design and construct the trade show displays in order to keep their clients a notch above the competition."

Spinella added that if an industry specialist is handling the custom tradeshow display, then businesses can devote their attention and resources to other aspects of their brand presentation. A business can focus on selling their products and services and setting up appointments and let Xibit Solutions take care of their presence. With the new booths announced and introduced, Xibit widened their offerings of best-in-class, custom exhibition booth rentals. With a successful track record, they feel they have become one of the most trusted names in the trade show industry in United States and across the globe.
