May 26, 2022

Fort Lauderdale, Florida - May 26, 2022 -
Fort Lauderdale, FL - Health insurance providers are turning to BrokerCalls for a stream of high-quality health insurance leads to help their businesses grow.

BrokerCalls has quickly become a source of qualified health insurance leads that provide live transfers of customers that are actively looking for health insurance plans. BrokerCalls sells calls on a pay-per-call basis which allows for greater return on investment and more control for insurance providers, only paying for what they want.

BrokerCalls acquires their health insurance leads from two main sources- their extensive online marketing campaigns as well as their robust affiliate marketing network. The leads are fed into a call tracking program provided by BrokerCalls and then sent exclusively to a matching client profile which essentially sends the desired target market to each health insurance business partnered with BrokerCalls.

Even in highly competitive markets such as the health insurance industry, insurance providers are finding surprising sales growth through the pay-per-call health insurance leads that BrokerCalls supplies.

Purchasing quality leads instead of generating leads online allows businesses to bypass the considerable cost, effort, and time involved with running a successful online marketing campaign that reflects positively on ROI. Companies can pay a small fee for each qualified lead and jump directly to converting a sale, saving a great deal of time, money, and effort for the business.

The pay-per-call health insurance leads that BrokerCalls supplies are also exclusive so there is no worry that a lead is sold several times and the client is no longer interested in health insurance plans. Exclusivity of leads is a major component of the success BrokerCalls clients see because they are first in line to speak to a motivated customer.

Sales teams are able to focus their efforts on converting sales and not making cold calls or talking to potential customers that simply aren?t interested in health insurance anymore. The state-of-the-art call tracking software that BrokerCalls uses also offers tremendous insight into target audiences revealing possible trends and allowing for the data to be transformed into meaningful insights that can help to improve health insurance providers? sales strategies.

The completely results-driven pay-per-call lead system that BrokerCalls utilizes emphasizes the success of both BrokerCalls and their clients. Businesses are able to adjust their sales demands at any time which leads to fluid growth with some of the highest returns on investments ? especially when compared to online marketing campaigns that can take months or even years to pay off.

Any business looking for a way to achieve steady growth or a way to boost health insurance sales in the interim while other online marketing campaigns mature, BrokerCalls has the health insurance leads to make it possible.
