July 18, 2022 -

Kelowna RVs, a British Columbia based RV dealership, would like to inform local residents of their services as summer approaches. Summer is widely regarded as RV season, with many people making use of new and old RVs to go camping, traveling, and so on. Anyone can visit Kelowna RVs' website at <https://kelownarvs.com/> to view their current selection of motorhomes, toy haulers, trailers, used trucks, and more; the company has a variety of recreational vehicles available for all kinds of outdoor adventures, and customers are free to inquire about the wide selection they have available.

"At Kelowna RVs, we nurture a team spirit and joint goals to satisfy each customer and create repeat customers in the process," says the company. "We've fine-tuned our team, gathering a unique group of people from different lifestyles, traditions and age groups to meet your needs specifically and to make your buying experience pleasant and comfortable from beginning to end. If you don't see a particular item, click on the search tab. We will gladly inform you when matching inventory arrives. If you'd like to see our inventory in person, check out our maps and hours page, or give us a call. Thank you for your trust. We'd like to share who we are with you, and maybe you'll find us camping next to you one day!"

Kelowna RVs provides everything any individual or family might need to take to the open road. Their Red Seal Certified team delivers all the support a customer might need by offering access to exclusive service specials, such as repair claims for ICBC, Aviva, Guardian Risk and BCAA (along with part replacements). They go the extra mile to optimize each ride for all kinds of terrain and any season, providing travelers with the assurance that they are well prepared for anything they might encounter along the way.

The company is locally owned and family-run, and they are celebrating 22 years in RV sales and services. They have managed to last so long while building an excellent reputation among customers by nurturing a team spirit and focusing their team on catering to their community's needs. The Kelowna RVs team is made up of unique people who are each capable of understanding and working with virtually all types of customer, thereby making their buying experiences pleasant, speedy and easy. Whether the customer is interested in a small, affordable weekend travel trailer or a large life-on-the-road Motorhome, Kelowna RVs is there to help.

A number of customers have left excellent reviews of the company on various platforms. One customer, JC, says, "We ordered a Summit Tiny house from Kelowna RVs. As we required many various special options, it took many emails and phone conversations to ensure that this tiny house was built according to our specifications. To this end, we would like to sincerely thank Randy Scott of Kelowna RVs who went out of his way to coordinate the building and then the delivery of this house to Vancouver Island. Randy was always available to answer our many questions and requests. He followed up promptly and responded in a timely manner. Due to his good communication skills, nothing fell through the cracks! Randy, thank you, it was a real pleasure to deal with you and Kelowna RVs, we are very happy with this wonderful Summit Tiny house."

Another customer, Brady, says that Kelowna RVs provides, "A refreshing place to buy an RV! I am an out-of-town buyer, and my experience here was fantastic. I spoke with Rod via email for a few weeks prior to making the trip. I am very impressed with Rod - he's very laid back and really knows his products in depth, including the nitty gritty technical details. He made me feel confident about working with him. The rest of the team was great too, and I was impressed by the chance to walk through the whole trailer with an RV tech prior to taking it home. This dealership has exactly the personalized experience I was looking for. Thanks!"
