Introducing Greenfield Services, Inc., The Leading Excavating Contractor in Puyallup, WA

June 08, 2022

June 08, 2022 -
Puyallup, WA: Demand for excavation and underground utility services is growing rapidly as construction and infrastructure projects multiply in the State of Washington. Greenfield Services proudly provides these much-needed services to industrial and individual clients in Puyallup using advanced equipment for excavation, utility repair, storm drain cleaning, and more.

With continuous support from the local community, Greenfield Services has expanded its reach and serves more customers in Puyallup and the surrounding areas. In addition to traditional earthwork services, Greenfield Services offers a wide range of specialized local excavation services, such as pipe jetting, drilling, sewer repair, and hydro vacuum excavation.

The intricate excavation process is an essential component in laying the groundwork for any construction project. In order to prepare for the construction of a new building, the team at Greenfield Services, Inc will conduct a comprehensive suite of excavation services, from feasibility analysis to site preparation to final grading. The company also recognizes that digging underground is fraught with potential hazards and code violations. Over the years, many excavation companies have been accused of safety violations related to earthwork services. What makes Greenfield Services so different is its commitment to safety, which is evident in its strict safety protocols that include daily safety briefings, regular equipment inspections, and a zero-tolerance policy for unsafe work practices. The company's initiative to promote safety in the workplace has earned it a reputation as a pioneer in the safe excavation industry.

Being a reliable and trustworthy provider of excavation and underground utility services is important to Greenfield Services. The company has invested in the latest technologies and equipment to get the job done right. In recent years, the company has revolutionized how excavation and underground utility services are performed, unveiling an advanced and versatile fleet of VAC trucks that can rapidly deploy resources to any job site. For example, their hydro excavation service involves using high-pressure water to excavate a trench or hole in the ground. This new method of utility installation is also helping to reduce downtime, increase productivity, and cause less disruption to the surrounding environment.

Greenfield Services is a fully licensed and insured contractor, operating in compliance with all federal, state, and local regulations. Additionally, the company attributes its success to its team of certified, licensed, and insured contractors, and its value proposition of providing high-quality services at competitive rates.
