Irvine, California - June 13, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Irvine, California, June 2022: ERTH Hemp will rebrand to ERTH Wellness to offer hemp-derived products that are more targeted toward health and wellness. The rebrand reflects the company's growth as it has advanced into a lead producer of essential products derived from the cannabis plant. Readers can learn more by visiting ERTH Hemp.

CBD-infused products are among the most in-demand products in the wellness industry. It's one of the hottest trends in wellness right now, ranging from gummies to tinctures to creams. CBD products have proven to be a successful remedy for conditions like anxiety, insomnia, stress, and muscle pain- whether mental or physical. ERTH Wellness aims to refocus its product line on its specialty health and wellness products; the Delta-8 THC range, to help people suffering from common ailments.

Seed-to-sale product manufacturer ERTH Wellness is one of the few vertically integrated companies in the cannabis business. From seed propagation and growing to harvesting and extraction, every aspect of their production is controlled. In this product model, they are fully in control of their raw material costs, giving them the ability to offer competitive pricing to all customers, as well as full transparency from start to finish. Having gained recognition in the industry, the company's rebranding reflects how it has grown and expanded in recent years.

"As a result of the knowledge we gained over the past four years, we are redesigning our product line and giving it a complete overhaul," a spokesperson for the company said. "We want to share our knowledge of the benefits of hemp with the world. Knowing what is good for your health and well-being is liberating. Health decisions can be made more effectively when you have more knowledge about them." The company will change its name to EARTH Wellness and reimagine its product line to focus on the health and wellness aspects of CBD.

Since the company was founded, it has grown to supply customers with a complete line of CBD products aimed at improving health and wellness. According to EARTH Wellness, their CBD specialists offer high-quality CBD products designed with health and safety as a priority; "EARTH Wellness offers a diverse selection of Delta-8 THC products in its online cannabis store, whether you want to relieve pain or stress, improve mood or boost energy," a spokesperson said.
