Specializing in life-like baby dolls, Reborn Baby Dolls have launched new and high-quality baby dolls made from premier-quality vinyl and mohair. The company offers custom-made dolls based on actual baby photographs.

While explaining their business, Jamie Hollister, representing Reborn Baby Dolls, said that their baby dolls are handmade with such expertise that they seem highly realistic to their customers. "People, especially those who wish to get a feel of an infant lying next to them, those who have lost someone like them or those who never had a chance to have a kid of their own, are adopting these dolls," said Jamie. In their past 5 years in business, Jamie says the dolls have become quite popular.

Concerning the reasons that make these dolls so famous, Jamie said the realistic appearance of these dolls catch the eyes of customers. She added that since the company offers custom-made dolls with high-quality material, people prefer them over others. Custom offers allow people to choose their choice of age, gender, hair, eye color and other aspects of appearance for their baby doll. Jamie added that the company also specializes in creating these baby dolls through a picture of an actual baby. "People who had lost their kids or who wishes to experience the parenthood again are most interested in these types of dolls," she said.

Jamie says the company makes sure that the dolls are made of high quality material suitable for all age groups and ethnicities. She added that these handmade dolls are created to let people feel the experience of having a life-like baby in their arms. Since people mostly have an emotional attachment with them, it's the company's priority to provide them with their best possible work.

While making the announcement Jamie also said that the company has priced these dolls according to the work done on them. The high-quality and realistic appearance is the company's forte which they never compromise and have always been working to provide the best dolls to their customers.
