

Life inTents Redirects Glamping Event Services to Cascadia Glamping

June 27, 2022

June 27, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Portland, Oregon: Life inTents, a luxury glamping tent producer, has ceased its glamping event operations in order to focus on product development. Glamping tent event services previously provided by Life inTents in the Pacific Northwest region will continue on through the separate management of the newly formed Cascadia Glamping.

Life inTents was a pioneer in the pop-up glamping event services industry in Oregon and was one of the first to offer glamping tent services for events out of Portland in 2017. In 2019, the company released the Fernweh, its first branded bell tent. Life inTents has released numerous canvas bell tents and accessories and increased its focus on creating innovative products to help people camp comfortably.

In order to move forward with this focus on product development and customer service, the Life inTents team has decided to divest its glamping event services business. However, the glamping tent event services previously provided by Life inTents will continue in operation.

Cascadia Glamping is now providing the glamping event services in the Pacific Northwest region previously run by Life inTents. Cascadia Glamping is under the trusted leadership of Hannah and James Woods, owners of Wandering Woods Farm. With their experience in providing outdoor services in the Cascade region and their passion for nature and sustainability, Cascadia Glamping will continue to go above and beyond for customers renting fully furnished glamping tents for weddings, festivals, and other outdoor events. Life inTents is confident that the company will maintain the same dedication to innovative and unforgettable service.

Visit Cascadia Glamping's website for more information about glamping event services in the Pacific Northwest region. To purchase glamping tents and accessories and learn more about canvas tent camping, visit the Life inTents website.
