July 08, 2022

Dartford, Kent - July 08, 2022 -
Simpsons International Removals is inviting British citizens, who are planning on moving to Italy for work, to find out more about its European removal services.

On June 4, 2022, during the MED5 Summit, Luciana Lamorgese, the Italian Minister of Interior, announced that it was increasing the number of people allowed to arrive in Italy for work. This year, the country is going to accept 75,000 migrants into its workforce, an increase of 5,000 from the previous year. The Italian minister provided the reasoning for the increase in the quota by saying that ?Italy is currently dealing with a lack of personnel in specific sectors.? Simpsons International Removals is positioning itself as the perfect international removal and shipping company for helping those looking to move to Italy from the UK.

John Lee, General Manager of Simpsons International Removals, says, ?We are pleased that Italy is planning to allow more migrants into the country for work, and our service will be able to help those looking to make the move. Simpsons International Removals will make moving to Italy easy as we have perfected our local and international removal services over years of operations. Simpsons International Removals offers its customers a dedicated load service that lets them pick the date they want their home?s furnishings and items to be picked up.
