New York City postnuptial agreement attorney Ryan Besinque and his team of skilled attorneys releases an article (<https://www.besinquelaw.com/postnuptial-agreements-lawyer/>) explaining the importance of postnuptial agreements in marriages. The lawyer mentions that marriage is not only an emotional contract but also a financial one. Attorney Besinque says that his firm focuses on helping couples in New York offering them advice about postnuptial agreements.

Two individuals who have decided to marry get into an agreement to share their life and their properties. Unfortunately, should that marriage end in divorce, the couple may realize that they could have benefited from getting their financial assets and debts more clarified. Even after the marriage has taken place, a couple can do this with a postnuptial agreement, says the New York City postnuptial agreement attorney.

The lawyer explains that most couples avoid talking about potential divorce. This is why he and his brilliant team of skilled attorneys are here. Mr. Besinque's team understands that creating postnuptial arrangements is beneficial for both spouses in the event of a tragic ending to their marriage.

Attorney Ryan Besinque says that valid postnuptial agreements are meant to resolve many issues like the separation of marital and separate property. It also helps the spouses to determine what debts they have brought into their marriage. He also mentions that the tool helps to define and provide support for spouses who have brought debt into the marriage.

The lawyer stated that postnuptial agreements in New York are legal and enforceable, but there are requirements that must be adhered to. Attorney Besinque suggests that an individual should seek the advice of a skilled divorce lawyer when reviewing prenuptial or postnuptial agreements. The court will examine any prenuptial and postnuptial agreements that are contested during divorce proceedings to determine if they have been drafted in an unfair or fraudulent manner.

Attorney Besinque also stresses the importance to have an experienced lawyer who can help the client set goals for their future. Postnuptial agreements can also help in defining how the individual wants their agreement to look.
