Jackson, New Jersey - One of the most popular trends in energy savings and efficiency by home and businesses owners throughout New Jersey is installing innovative and practical solar energy solutions. Something that those who work at Jackson Township, NJ-based Roof Works have been involved with for many years now. The company has gotten so big on the solar side of the business that they recently announced the creation of a dedicated solar division. That way they can better serve their customers economical and practical sun provided renewable energy needs.

This roofing contractor is a licensed, bonded, and insured New Jersey roofing company. This announcement that the company will now be offering even more solar installation and other solar services to their New Jersey customers shows the emphasis it places on green energy and helping people reduce their collective carbon footprint. They are responsible solar services provider that realizes that by helping their customers go solar, customers can live a greener lifestyle, help preserve the earth, and save money on their power bills. One of the co-founders of this popular NJ roofing company, Sean Kelly, stated, ?There is no better time for homeowners to go solar than now. That?s because they can save on solar with 26% federal rebates and take advantage of several financing options through us that include low monthly payments and requiring $0 Down.

Turning to solar is helping some New Jersey homeowners save over 90% on their power bills!?

The company co-owner went on to say that whether a customer is looking for residential solar, commercial solar, solar installation, or exploring purchasing vs leasing, they at Roof Works of Jackson can help. The best way to get started with solar energy is to take advantage of the company?s unique solar energy audits that help homeowners assess whether solar would truly be a good fit from them. These include analyzing a customer?s energy usage, checking their roof insulation, and looking at appliance usage. Roof Works energy audits also spot sources of energy waste, find out home heating and cooling trends, and establish overall power bill costs. Once an energy audit is completed, Roof Works will then provide an honest assessment of whether that customer can benefit from installing a solar energy collection system. He added that customers can even choose to go green and save big by having a full-service home improvement company like Roof Works complete both an energy efficient roof replacement for them followed by solar panel installation.

This is not the first new division that has been created by this progressive roof repair and solar services provider either. Something that is evidenced by the fact that the Roof Works also recently started a roof rejuvenation division. This happening was announced in a press release that can be seen here at https://www.pressadvantage.com/story/53290-roof-works-of-jackson-announces-the-launch-of-their-roof-rejuvenation-division. In that press release, it stated that the company now has access to a unique product that can help extend the life of shingled roofs many years into the future. This product which is called Peak 301? is an all-natural, do-it-all answer for aging asphalt shingles. It has a chemistry-correcting formula that is guaranteed to give extra years of life to any asphalt shingled roof.

Roof Works also has an impressive resume as far as the reviews that have been left on their roof repair and solar projects are concerned. On their Google Maps Business Listing alone, they are a perfect 5 out of 5-star rated company after receiving over 50 reviews. As an example, Joshua Stevens review stated, ?Good job! I used Sean from Roof Works to complete a whole new roof installation for my home in Jackson, and man this was the best decision ever! He provided top quality for everything. He started the work immediately and finished in a day. I would definitely recommend him to anyone who needs a new roof or roof repairs. Thanks Sean!? Amanda Ciemniecki said, ?Sean was very responsive and professional. He continued to provide updates on the progress of the work, and I am overall very happy with the finished product. I would trust him with any future roofing needs I have!? Kelly also talked about how they can help home and business owners with any roof storm-related damage that they have.
