July 15, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Puyallup, Washington: Greenfield Services, the leading excavating contractor in Puyallup WA, has added new, specialized Vac trucks to its fleet. An impressive array of capabilities has been added to the company's excavating services with the introduction of these advanced VAC trucks. The new trucks are equipped with the latest technology to accelerate the productivity of the Greenfield Services team.

The new trucks have already been put into service and have been well-adopted for many construction and infrastructural projects. All units are equipped with an automated side dump system and a rear-view camera to provide safety and security for the operator and crew. The hydro excavation trucks use high-pressure water jets to break up soil and powerful vacuum suction to remove the dirt and debris. This method is less invasive than traditional excavating methods and is ideal for delicate structures such as utilities, foundations, or sewer systems.

Since its investment in this advanced equipment, Greenfield Services has improved its service efficiency and team productivity. In particular, the VAC trucks' high-rail system helps keep the operator on grade while excavating and its automated side dump system eliminates the need for manual dumping. This way, the job is done faster and perfectly.

"This equipment can be used for a wide variety of services, including cleaning any underground piping system, such as sewer and storm drain lines. It can also be used for hydro excavation for those sensitive areas around utility lines," says Jacob, the Greenfield Services' Owner. For years, this local excavating contractor has made Puyallup's clients happy with its innovative and efficient services, such as pre-construction, earthwork, and infrastructure services. With its years of experience, the company is well-positioned to take advantage of the current market conditions and continue its growth trajectory.

As one of the best excavating contractors in the area, Greenfield Services Inc. is committed to continuing its tradition of excellence as it expands its reach into new markets. The company looks forward to continued success in the future, providing the highest quality of excavation services to its clients.
