

Go South Carolina Title Loans Comments On Columbia Economic Updates

July 21, 2022

July 21, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Columbia, South Carolina based Go South Carolina Title Loans is commenting on a recent report which shows that the military community contributes greatly to the South Carolina economy. The company is one of the top financial aid providers in the region, with a team dedicated to helping people get the cash they need through a fast and flexible process.

According to WIS-TV, a new study commissioned by the South Carolina Department of Veterans' Affairs found the military community contributes $34.3 billion annually to the state's economy, giving credence to South Carolina leaders' statements about the state's expensive military being a vital part of the economy. University of South Carolina Research Economist Joey Von Nessen, who conducted the study, stated that the three main components driving those figures are the state's eight military installations, the 670 contractors who work with those installations and the service members who contribute. Statistics show that South Carolina has the 10th-most active duty and reserve personnel among all states ? and the eighth-highest military retiree population, with more than 63,000 retirees ? all of whom are spending money in the local economy and supporting local businesses, which in turn bolsters the state's economy.

Further data from the study shows that the billions contributed by the state's military community make up about 11% of South Carolina's economy. The study shows that the military community directly or indirectly supports more than 254,000 jobs, which translates to about one in every nine jobs across the whole state.

Unsurprisingly, the regions of the state benefitting the most from the military community are the areas where the military installations are located. Charleston leads the way, bringing in about $12.7 billion annually, with Joint Base Charleston responsible for much of this, while the Columbia Midlands region follows at $6.6 billion, thanks in large part to Fort Jackson. However, the military's footprint and the subsequent benefits gained extend to all 46 counties.

A representative for Go South Carolina Title Loans is quoted as saying, "It is good to see the money impact the community in a positive way." As a company dedicated to ensuring that those in need of financial aid in the South Carolina area have the means to get it, Go South Carolina Title Loans is pleased with the military community's contribution to the local economy.
