Charnwood, England - July 26, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Loughborough, England - Matt G Tarrant, a digital marketer based in Loughborough, England, is happy to announce that he is offering a revolutionary phone sales solution for business owners who have a free or low-ticket front end offer, such as a book, audit, etc. that cannot cover the acquisition cost. This technique is new even in the niche that pioneered its use, which is the supplements industry, and those who adopt it today will get the huge benefit of being an early adopter. It will work even when the business owner works alone but it can also scale up substantially when outsourcing or building an in-house team. More about this can be gleaned from <https://mattgtarrant.com/low-ticket-phone-sales/>.

Matt Tarrant wants to point out that the business owner would be able to double his or her average order value (AOV) and make the loss-making ads profitable. The exact recipe or method can be obtained by the business owner by clicking through to his web page. This technique is to be used when the AOV is less than one's acquisition cost and growth is dependent on savings, borrowings, or selling of equity because one doesn't have the cash for spending on ads. What is being provided is what the business owner must do in order to make the ads work and grow the business without spending savings and without selling one's future.

And even for business owners who are profiting a little, they are still letting their competitors who are getting a higher AOV outspend them on ads and may be able to grab all of the business owner's rightful prospects. This would still be a dangerous situation for the business owner because it could lead towards a gradually declining amount of sales, resulting into less clicks and less sales.

For some business owners, they run out of funds even before their ads start to become profitable and they will then decide that ads don't work for them because their business is different. Back end sales won't be able to help because of the time delay.

However, there is a new way to double one's AOV and at the same time make the ads profitable quickly. The method was discovered by the supplements industry, which is to use low ticket outbound calls to new customers for the purpose of doubling AOV. Low ticket sales means $10 to $200 for the first sale and $50 to $2,000 for the phone sale. This technique has been found to work well because making a phone sale is much easier compared to making a sale in print. Furthermore, the phone calls are being made to an extremely hot audience who have just bought from the business owner. While it is a sales call, the concept is that of an expert or coach that is providing value to the client.

A phone call may also be made to people whose credit card has been declined by offering to fix any mistake that the customer might have made in the card details, providing them with another payment method or a payment plan.

Matt Tarrant was a fellow at the Centre for High Energy Physics (CERN) in Geneva, Switzerland, when he came to know some employees of a small US-based startup firm. Later on, he decided to join that company, particularly the company's first office in Europe, in Germany. But he later realized that the company was losing money, so he decided to do something about it and he ultimately was successful in making the company become profitable after six months. And the year after that, he succeeded in doubling the projected net profit to approximately $5.4 million. After some time, he joined another company, and he was able to show that he could create online businesses with average success. Today, he is focused on developing profit machines for business owners.
