Family Car Title Loans, a financial services provider from Ontario, is highlighting the recent steps that the provincial government has taken towards mitigating the danger COVID-19 poses to children. Ontario readers looking for financial assistance can visit the Family Car Title Loans website to learn more about its fast and hassle-free services.

On 21 July 2022, the Ontario government announced that it will begin distributing the pediatric COVID-19 vaccine to children aged six months to five years starting Thursday, July 28, 2022. Ontario residents will be able to book appointments online through the COVID-19 vaccination portal at several public health unit clinics, participating pediatricians, primary care providers, and pharmacies in the region. Moreover, immunocompromised youth aged 12 to 17 will also become eligible to schedule their second booster dose (fifth dose) if at least six months have passed since their first booster (fourth dose).

During the same announcement, the Ontario government also said that it has extended the paid sick days, for employees who miss days due to COVID-19, all the way up to March 31, 2023. Eligible employers in Ontario will be reimbursed for their employees' sick days by the local government. Eligible workers in Ontario will also continue to receive up to $200 a day for up to three days if they need to get tested, vaccinated, receive booster shots, self-isolate, or care for a family member who has tested positive for COVID-19.

The Ontario government's efforts to fight the economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the province's workers go way back. In May 2020, it first introduced the Infectious Disease Emergency Leave under the Employment Standards Act and instated the "COVID-19 Period" starting in March 2020. The "COVID-19 Period" was previously set to end on January 1, 2022. However, it was extended in December 2021. The leave is currently available to Ontario employees covered by the Employment Standards Act including employees that are part-time, full-time, permanent, on-contract, and on-probation.

"We hope the economic impact of the Coronavirus ends for everyone as soon as possible," a spokesperson for Family Title Loans said. Ontario residents who want to find out about how the company's services are

Though the Ontario government is doing all that it can to help employees who need to take sick days due to COVID-19, a lot of industries such as construction and hospitality were completely shut down during the pandemic. This was an irrecoverable loss of income for countless families in Canada who had to dip into their savings to make ends meet. Several Ontario residents, who happened to be liable for a large expense during those difficult times, such as medical bills or urgent home improvement repairs, turned to the services offered by Family Car Title Loans.
