

Landscaper Releases New Resources Guide For Specifiers & Architects

July 29, 2022

July 29, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

C & K Landscaping have developed an invaluable, free resource to save time and lower the stress levels of construction specifiers and estimators. With the searchable database of construction materials, users can search for whatever they are looking for and have a printable, shareable list of products, specifications and procedures within seconds. Share knowledge directly in the interface, staying aligned and engaged throughout the speedy process.

"One of our founding product principles at C & K Landscaping is "live your work." As more and more of our customers look to architects and designers to solve their hard landscaping needs, we wanted to enable our users with the ability to find what they want, when they want it," said Chris Pike, owner of C & K Landscaping.

Users can now search for and share knowledge, verify the accuracy of knowledge, receive important notifications, and collaborate directly on knowledge—all without leaving the chat interface.

Future iterations of the database will include live feeds into products stockists, providing instant details of availability, delivery and price. Supplier contact details are provided and users can either choose to contact them directly to discuss their requirements personally, or they can send quote requests out to multiple suppliers with one click.

For specifiers and architects this invaluable resource lists all the choices available in the hard landscaping and paving industry.

About C & K Landscaping
