

Hard Landscapers Release New Database Tool For Architects and Specifiers

July 29, 2022

July 29, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

To help specifiers and estimators in the construction industry save time and feel less stressed, C & K Landscaping has created a useful, free resource. Users may quickly find what they're looking for in the construction materials searchable database and print or share a list of the goods, specs, and methods. Sharing information immediately within the user interface keeps everyone on the same page and involved in the quick process.

" 'Live your work' is one of C & K Landscaping's founding product values. We wanted to give our users the flexibility to locate what they want, when they want it, as more and more of our clients turn to architects and designers to meet their hard landscaping demands." C & K Landscaping's owner, Chris Pike, said.

Without ever leaving the chat interface, users can now search for and share knowledge, check the knowledge's accuracy, get vital notifications, and directly collaborate on knowledge.

The database will incorporate live feeds into product stockists in later versions, giving quick information on availability, delivery, and price. Users have the option of contacting vendors directly to discuss their needs in person, or they can send estimate requests to numerous suppliers with a single click using the contact information supplied.

This priceless tool outlines all the options offered by the hard landscaping and paving industries for specifiers and architects.

About C & K Landscaping
