

Dr Mark Hickman Discusses Vasectomy Reversal Cost

August 22, 2022

New Braunfels, TX - August 22, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

For anyone wondering, "Can vasectomy be reversed?", the office of Dr Mark Hickman is pleased to announce that they offer surgical reversals of vasectomies, a common birth control procedure for men. Dr Hickman has focused his entire practice on successfully reversing vasectomies with his superior microsurgical skills so people who have had vasectomies can go on to parent children. Over the course of his 26 year career, Dr Hickman has performed thousands of successful vasectomy reversal surgeries, allowing for thousands of births and happy new parents.

As an expert in laparoscopic procedures, Dr Hickman is able to repair the vas deferens using microsurgical methods, using a powerful microscope and an extremely fine nylon suture. This procedure is minimally invasive, with a goal of creating careful alignment of the two ends of the vas deferens and stitching them together for a watertight seal for a high success rate. A typical requires 10 to 15 stitches with nylon suture much finer than a human hair, and Dr Hickman is able to perform the entire operation for an all inclusive fee of only $3,300. With such an affordable vasectomy reversal procedure, it's no wonder so many families have trusted Dr Hickman to reverse their vasectomies and help them add more babies to their lives.

The standard all inclusive vasectomy reversal package includes local anesthesia to numb the area where the surgery is happening, and an oral sedative to help the patient relax or maybe sleep through the surgery. Clients can also opt for IV sedation administered by a Board Certified Anesthesiologist, in which case the entire price for the procedure is only $4,200 with no hidden fees. Dr Hickman founded his private practice in 1988 in Braunfels, TX, outside of San Antonio, and has also invented several surgical instruments, received a patent, and been recognized as a contributor to several other important patents for minimally invasive telescopic surgery equipment.

With so many happy clients, Dr Hickman has received a number of testimonials from families that didn't think they'd be able to have children due to their past decisions, who were able to get their fertility back and produce a child. One review reads, "Dr Hickman, I wanted to take a moment to say thank you. Last year my wife Ashley and I drove out from Tucson Az. for me to get a reversal after 10 years. We had hoped for the best but did not expect a miracle, especially right away. In fact a week after my procedure, she had to have one of her ovaries and fallopian tubes removed due to a cyst. We were concerned to say the least. During my procedure you prayed over me with us and that meant the world to Ashley. Even with some worries early on we felt if there was a chance, it was because of you. So all this being said, on Dec 28th just 3 months after my surgery, we found out she was pregnant. And yesterday, we welcomed Keegan James Ellis into the world. So from all of us, we thank God for your skilled hands and knowledge in blessing us with our son. Jim and Ashley Ellis." The website notes that results will vary from person to person, and not every vasectomy reversal surgery is guaranteed to be successful.

Vasectomies are considered an excellent form of birth control, because they're minimally invasive, have few side effects, and are generally quite effective after an initial recovery period of a few weeks. Unfortunately, it can be challenging to undo a vasectomy, meaning it's generally considered a permanent option, for people who have no interest in having any more children of their own in their lives. Luckily people like Dr Mark Hickman exist, doing minimally invasive microsurgical procedures to help people who have had vasectomies restore their ability to produce children. With his excellent success rates, client can rest assured that they are maximizing their chances of making babies again.
