Ridgefield, CT-based Mighty Dog Roofing has been faithfully serving those in Western Connecticut with high-quality roofing work for many years now. They handle a wide variety of residential and commercial roof repair projects for those in such areas as Greater Ridgefield, Bethel, Redding, and Southwest Danbury. Among the most popular of which is the company?s whole roof replacement work.

Tom Luzzi, the local owner, and operator of Mighty Dog Roofing which serves Western Connecticut says, ?There are two things that are definitely not the friend of the roofs that are found in our area. Those are age and the sometimes-harsh weather that is found regularly in our part of the country. That means as a home or business owner you will eventually have to get a roof replacement done for you. With the experienced professionals that we have here in place at Mighty Dog Roofing, you will never be in better hands when it comes to getting this type of roofing project done for you.?

Luzzi stated that when a customer contacts them about an aging or worn roof, the first step that they take is inspecting the entire roof that needs to be redone. That can be done in one of two ways. The first is the more traditional way of walking the roof. Here their tech will get up on a customer?s roof and inspect every part of a roof for such things as weak spots and other conditions which may indicate there may be a structural problem under the layer of shingle. The tech will also make note of any leak preventing flashing or chimney boots that may need replacing and check to see if the roof is properly vented to prevent premature aging of shingles.

He went on to say that for irregular-shaped or larger size commercial roofs, they often use advanced drone technology for inspections. Here the bird?s eye views the drone provides give them a complete picture of the condition of a customer?s roof and a good idea of how to best go about doing the roof replacement project. Once either of these inspections has been completed, the customer will then be given an accurate and detailed estimate for the project. Once the customer agrees to get the job done, Luzzi says only high-quality products will be used while doing the project and the customer can expect it to be completed promptly. He also emphasized that no roofing job that they do is ever considered to be complete unless a thorough cleanup of the work area has been done. Mighty Dog Roofing of Western Connecticut will also completely stand behind all the work that was done.

The franchise owner added that he is proud to be part of the Mighty Dog Roofing family. Luzzi stated, ?Our Mighty Dog Pledge promises best in class communication, quality of workmanship, professionalism, and on-time service. These promises offer our local customers an experience that differentiates us and gives you peace of mind for years to come!? He mentioned that they are also known as a roofing company that never operates with anything but honesty and integrity. He also loves how progressive a company Mighty Dog is and all that this adds to their customers? experience when working with them.

Besides advanced drone technology, they also offer their clients access to what?s known as a customer vault. Here a customer can see all the roofing projects that mighty dog completed for them, the materials used during the project, and any associated warranties with that work. Photos taken during the project can also be viewed here along with any correspondence during the work that took place between the company and the customer. He also pointed out that they are willing to respond quickly to any emergency roof repairs that a customer needs and their ?Curb Appeal Visualizer? app allows customers to see what their roof will look like with different types and colors of shingle on it.

Luzzi says that more information on their Western Connecticut roofing company can be found on their website or a customer can refer to their Facebook Page to get more information about their reputable roofing services.
