

PSS International Removals Updates List on Most in Demand Jobs for Australia Migration

August 31, 2022

London, England - August 31, 2022 -
PSS International Removals, a UK-based international removals company, is happy to announce that they have an updated list of the top jobs in demand for migrants in Australia. The list includes the top 10 critical skills shortages in Australia for 2022-2027 as well as the top 50 jobs in demand for migrants. This list can be accessed here at https://blog.pssremovals.com/most-in-demand-jobs-skilled-migration-australia.

The top 50 jobs that are in demand for migrants in Australia include registered nurses, secondary school teachers; software and applications engineers; electricians; construction managers; carpenters and joiners; metal fitters and machinists; plumbers; motor mechanics; university lecturers and tutors and more. These jobs are based on the Occupation Ceilings which are issued by the Australian government and priority will be given to those whose skillset and experience will contribute to the economy.

The top 10 occupations with critical shortages in Australia for 2022-27 include Construction Managers, Teachers, ICT, Software, Electricians, Plumbers and more. This list was announced by Prime Minister

Anthony Albanese in August 2022, and these jobs are expected to be most in need over the next five years, and the government is looking to attract skilled foreign workers to help in filling the gap.

With regards to the occupations on the Priority Migration Skilled Occupation List, which was announced during the coronavirus pandemic, there were 44 types of jobs, including chief executive or managing director; construction project manager; accountant (general); management accountant; taxation accountant; external auditor; internal auditor; a surveyor; cartographer; another spatial scientist; civil engineer; geotechnical engineer; structural engineer; transport engineer and more. This list was announced to help the country recover from the pandemic and provides a good indicator of jobs in demand.

The exciting news is that PSS can help those looking to move with their removals to Australia service. Their professionally trained export packers will wrap household belongings and ensure that items arrive in perfect condition when shipping from the United Kingdom to Australia. Other moving services include a move manager who will help with customs clearance and documentation.

PSS was Initiated in 1982 as a personal shipping services company in the UK and is now an international removals firm with 40+ years of experience. They offer their services to those looking to relocate from the UK to other countries. Whether customers simply want to move a few boxes or the whole household, including a car, PSS will provide assistance. After years of operation, the company has now developed into one of the biggest and leading international removal companies in the UK.
