August 30, 2022 -
Hilton Head, SC - Visitors and residents of Hilton Head can expect new and exciting activities in the area, according to 101 Things To Do Magazine. The magazine is the perfect resource for activities on the island. Their editorial staff has curated a varied list of Things To Do in Hilton Head and attractions that will keep any family entertained all day.

The magazine listed fun activities, especially for those with kids. The online and print publication says Hilton Head Island is well-known as a family destination. The island has breathtaking sandy beaches bordered by the sea, perfect for relaxing, picnicking, and beach activities, including water sports that are suited even for kids. Biking and beach hopping are first on the 101 Things To Do Magazine list.

The island has a 12-mile stretch of Atlantic-facing shoreline that is perfect for biking. The island also has the largest network of bike paths in the United States. Vacationers and residents can bring their bikes or just rent them in the area.

Visiting the Harbor Town Lighthouse at the Sea Pines Resort neighborhood is also a must. The famous landmark, with its gorgeous and recognizable red and white striped lighthouse, also serves as a navigational aid. It also has a museum with exhibits of old photographs and relics that tell the island?s narrative.

101 Things To Do Magazine also recommends a visit to the Lawton Stables. The lovely horses at Lawton Stables are pretty calm, so it is allowed for children. They also have a welcoming staff to cater to the whole family. Kids will also love the delightful petting zoo at the stables, with miniature cows, miniature donkeys, pot-bellied pigs, chickens, sheep, and goats.

Surrounded by beaches, visitors can explore the beauty of Hilton Head. Kids will surely enjoy swimming on lifeguarded beaches like Coligny, Islander, or Folly Field Beaches.
