New Lenox, IL based Granite Mountain is offering homeowners comprehensive access to their inventory of premium flooring, cabinetry, countertops and more. With a focus on transforming homes to match their owners? need, preferences and overall vision, the company is ready to deliver a makeover that will stun a property?s residents and guests alike.

Granite Mountain has been serving their community and beyond for nearly 50 years, and their team?s experience has grown exponentially since they first opened their doors and began working with customers. As the decades went by, the company has witnessed every manner of trend arrive and recede, and they now have a strong idea of what it takes to make a home unique by today?s standards as well as insure it against the tastes of coming years. When homeowners choose to work with Granite Mountain, they are choosing a passionate team that understands what they are looking for and is fully capable of sharing a valuable recommendation where the situation calls for it.

Customers who make use of the company?s flooring options, for instance, will find that Granite Mountain offers a range of premium products that, more often than not, seem to fit in their budget, no matter how conservative they may be. This is due to the fact that the company exercises their truckload buying power to purchase large quantities of porcelain, ceramic, laminate, hardwood and carpet from distributors as well as manufacturers at massively discounted prices. The company is then pleased to pass on these savings to the customer, and they are confident that an individual would be hard pressed to find better deals anywhere else.

Much of the same can be said for the company?s custom countertops & installation services. The kitchen and bathroom of any home tend to serve as focal points that are superseded only, perhaps, by the bedroom, so homeowners rightly tend to place a heavy emphasis on these areas (especially since they tend to see the heaviest traffic in the house). As such, Granite Mountain is always conscious of the need to carefully balance aesthetic appeal with functional or practical use.

The first step, they assert, is to ensure the customer has a wide range of materials to choose from. Many customers, for instance, will be familiar with quartz, granite and marble, but there are numerous sub varieties that each boast unique strengths. A customer may pick between Colonial White Granite, Grigio Fantasia Quartz, Starry Night Granite, White Shadow Marble and much more. Once a choice is made (with or without the company?s input), they can rely on Granite Mountain?s expert team to install it without risking the product itself or any other aspect of their home.

A review from Donna H. shares a number of reasons why her time with Granite Mountain proved to be extremely fruitful. Her property had suffered a great deal of damage before it came into her hands, and she found herself with lots of work to do. Fortunately, she turned to Granite Mountain for help.

An excerpt from her review says, ?I dealt with Mark and Michelle, who are not only knowledgeable, but honest. They captured what I wanted, helped me pick my selections from their showroom and kept me updated throughout the whole process. In Mark's words, there are many moving parts that need to come together on time, and he made it happen, having staff here every day for the duration of the project. Each day, I was impressed at the progress made, as well as the fact that I was able to live here, due to how clean his staff kept it.?

The review concludes, ?Granite Mountain made what was a huge project, not only fun, but an incredible experience. I highly recommend using Granite Mountain for any home improvement project you have.?

According to the company, this is the customer experience they aim to deliver on every project, no matter how small or complicated it may be. The majority of customers who approach the company are homeowners who are ready to trust a contractor with one of their most precious assets, and Granite Mountain takes this responsibility seriously.
