Arrowhead Clinic in Savannah Suggests Immediate Chiropractic Care After Car Accidents

September 06, 2022

Savannah, Georgia - September 06, 2022 -
Arrowhead Clinic has posted a detailed blog post on the importance of chiropractic care for car accident victims in Savannah, GA, adding that a motor vehicle crash can turn life upside down in a split second. Dr. Jeremy Thompson, the leading chiropractor in Savannah, explains the risk posed by a hidden motor vehicle crash injury, warning that it can change the victim?s life and lead to long-term, chronic issues.

The blog post emphasizes the need for immediate chiropractic assistance after an accident as it can significantly impact the body?s self-healing process. The Savannah chiropractor cautions accident victims against making mistakes that can be critical to their compensation claim, adding that insurance companies are always on the lookout for any excuse to deny the victim?s accident claim or reduce the settlement.

The Savannah car accident chiropractor shares crucial steps for victims to take after the collision. The doctor of chiropractic suggests accident victims immediately call emergency services for medical assistance and start collecting the necessary information.

The blog post stresses the importance of documentation of accident details, which includes the license number and vehicle license plate number of the other driver, their insurance card information and contact address, time and date of the accident, and contact details of witnesses. Dr. Thompson explains that this information is critical during the claims process and to get the deserving compensation.

The best car accident doctor in Savannah urges victims of accidents to call the police immediately to report the accident and communicate about accident injuries and the cause of the collision. The police report is crucial to providing context for a future personal injury claim. The Savannah car accident doctor cautions that some accident injuries take time to surface and warns victims not to tell paramedics, ?you're fine.?

The blog post suggests that accident victims should gather every single piece of evidence that they can while waiting for the police to arrive at the scene of the accident. Dr. Thompson explains that photos of the accident scene are crucial to a compensation claim, and the victim should take pictures from different angles of the vehicles' position, property damage to the cars, and injuries.

?If there were any hazards on the road that could have contributed to the accident, take photos of those as well. Also, look for things like skid marks, malfunctioning stop lights, or anything else that could be useful for your car accident attorney to help win your case. Once the accident scene is cleared, the evidence may be lost, so time is of the essence,? advises the Savannah chiropractor.

The doctor of chiropractic suggests victims look for security or traffic cameras that may have recorded the accident, adding, ?Video evidence is huge in supporting your claim, but you must preserve it. If there were any witnesses to the accident, ask them if you can record a short video describing what they saw.?

The blog post urges accident victims to contact their insurance agent immediately and also talk to an accident attorney if they are unsure that the insurance company will cover the accident. The car accident doctor, who is a specialist in chiropractic adjustments and soft tissue massage techniques, warns that a claim could be rejected if the accident victim does not contact insurance in time.

Dr. Thompson also suggests victims not make any statements or answer any questions from the at-fault driver's insurance company before speaking to an experienced car accident lawyer. ?Be polite, but decline to discuss any aspects of the accident until you have obtained legal advice. Your personal injury attorney can also do all the talking for you,? says Dr. Thompson.

Timely medical intervention is crucial to a speedy recovery, states the Savannah chiropractor, adding, ?You need to seek medical attention after your accident in Savannah, even if you don't feel injured. The adrenaline from the accident may mask serious injuries, so it's always a good idea to seek medical treatment.?

The doctor of chiropractic advises victims to follow the doctor's advice and attend all follow-up appointments to lower the chances of claim rejection. A proper diagnosis from a medical professional and documentation of injuries and treatment becomes a piece of solid evidence for the accident victim to prove their insurance claim.
