

Why You Should Consider Living In Shipyard Hilton Head, According to An Award-Winning Realtor

September 26, 2022

September 26, 2022 -
Hilton Head, SC - Those looking for a new home in Hilton Head Island should consider Shipyard Plantation as the area continues to gain interest, according to Charles Sampson, an award-winning realtor.

Shipyard Hilton Head is home to a peculiar mix of resort, residential, and commercial interests. These include a 338-room beachfront hotel, a top-notch health spa, 255 residential lots, 400 interval ownership apartments, and 1,000 condominium units. The community also has 27 golf holes and tennis courts too. Shipyard Plantation's close access to various Hilton Head locations makes it a suitable place to stay.

Charles Sampson Group of Charter One Realty says Shipyard's simplicity and accessible location are among its charms. Shipyard is rich in history, being the second plantation to be converted for residential use. Those who built Shipyard also paid attention to preserving its natural environment. Thus, the area remains green with bicycle routes, picturesque locations, rich semi-tropical vegetation, and has fantastic fauna.

Likewise, the Shipyard community offers a luxury resort feel. The reasonably diversified neighborhood has businesses, timeshares, and villas. Yet, despite the presence of a number of companies, Shipyard still provides the comforts of residential areas. Charles Sampson Group of Charter One Realty adds that Shipyard offers everything with convenience, a lovely beach, traditional neighbors, and a tropical paradise to call home.

Meanwhile, those looking for a property within Shipyard Hilton Head no longer need to worry. Anyone in need of assistance in acquiring a property in the area can contact Charles Sampson Group of Charter One Realty, a Trusted Realtor in Hilton Head.
