

Insurance Navy Developing Online Quoting System For California Car Insurance

September 28, 2022

September 28, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Palos Hills, IL - Nationwide insurance agency Insurance Navy is no stranger to expanding their low-cost car insurance services as their new operations in several states in recent years are rolled out physically, but their digital presence can use some work they decided. They are currently developing a new, exclusive online quoting system for their customers in California.

"We've been having lots of customers in California looking to buy our car insurance online," says Insurance Navy CEO Fadi Sneineh. "So, we'll be developing our online car insurance quoting system to sell our California car insurance products."

The new specialized online quoting system will include the entirety of their car insurance catalog, from minimum liability car insurance to full coverage car insurance. Insurance Navy's popular non-standard driver coverages like non-owners insurance and SR-22 insurance services will now have a crisp and reliable way to be sold online.

California is one of the original states that Insurance Navy expanded its services to after taking off in Illinois.

While they do see policyholders from all over the Golden State, their main location there is in Santa Ana, California. Despite their presence only in Southern California, Insurance Navy's car insurance rates are just as competitive there as they are anywhere else.

Insurance Navy's car insurance products and services in California are also highly rated and reviewed. Several come for affordable car insurance, whether it just be minimum liability car insurance coverage that satisfies the law or comprehensive car insurance coverage for maximum financial protection. Even high-risk drivers who had difficulty finding car insurance coverage anywhere else can get low-cost car insurance with Insurance Navy.

There is absolutely a noticeable difference between selling car insurance in the Midwest and selling car insurance in California. Nicer, more performance-based cars can be out all year round in California, and there is also a big market for motorcycle insurance with all the attractive roads they have. With California having the most drivers in the country, there is always someone in California looking for affordable car insurance, Sneh said.

There is no exact launch date set for the new California insurance quoting system yet, but drivers there can still buy car insurance easily through Insurance Navy. They would just have to do so through the main location in California or by phone.
