

Meet Positives Offers Online Dating Services For People With Herpes

October 05, 2022

Chicago, Illinois - October 05, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

MeetPositives.com, a dating website for people with herpes and other STDs, is reaching out to share information about their platform and how it can help people find love. Since the website was launched in 2014, they have dedicated themselves to providing a fully-featured dating portal for people with STDs ? a safe place to find love and relationships.

Michael Task of Meetpositives.com says, ?Dating is difficult enough for most people, and being positive with an STD does not make it any easier. When you are STD-positive, it is vital that you disclose your status to the person you are dating, and having that talk is a nerve-wracking process because there is always the ever-present threat of rejection. Meet Positives completely negates this issue; as a platform dedicated for STD-positive individuals, we facilitate connection and love between STD-positive singles.?

People who are living with STDs, such as herpes or HPV or anything else, and wish to be around people who care should join Meetpositives.com. Signing up as a new member is a straightforward process. Interested parties simply need to make an account on the website and fill in some basic information about themselves. With an account on the website, users can find and interact with other people in similar situations and foster a friendship or a romantic relationship. The website boasts a user base with thousands of singles looking for a connection.

Task says, "Herpes dating may seem like a troubling process, but we are trying to change the way people perceive sexually transmitted infections as well as those who are living with these conditions. Since we launched the website, our goal has been to help people find love and enjoy a relationship where they are defined by more than just their STD."

Since the website was built from the ground up targeting people living with STDs, it uses a proprietary algorithm that is vastly different from those used by conventional dating websites. Meetpositives.com's advanced algorithm considers various facets of a user's profile to not just match them with others who share similar interests but also ensure that the predictors generate long-lasting relationships. The website guarantees that they are able to guarantee that their users will find the perfect match within a short period.

Once the website's algorithm matches a user with a number of potential matches, they can then further refine the results by filtering using geographical distance and a number of other categories, including age, gender, preference and more. Users can also directly search for specific profiles of positive singles and interact with them directly. Meetpositives.com also assures that their website and databases are 100% secure.

Task says, "A lot of people are surprised by how common STDs are. Over 40 million people live with herpes, but only a few know they are infected. In the US, 1 in 5 people live with the disease. Genital herpes has become the most prevalent sexually transmitted infection in recent years. Herpes, like any other STD, is a physical nuisance, but it can be an emotional nightmare."

He continues, "However, you don't have to let your STD control your life. Just because you have an STD, it doesn't mean you can't meet someone special. It's not your fault for being positive. You are still in control of your happiness, and we can help you achieve the happiness you deserve! It used to be the case that if you wanted to find another person with an STD to date, you needed to put up a personal ad. Not anymore. Meetpositives.com has helped many people find the relationship they have been looking for, and we can help you too. Register your profile today and start looking for your perfect match."

Those who are interested in making use of the services provided by MeetPositives.com or simply wish to learn more about the platform should visit the website to get started. Anyone who has questions or concerns can get directly in touch with Michael Task via email or phone. MeetPositives.com also maintains a presence on Facebook where they frequently post updates, share information on the latest STD-related news and more. Learn more about the website here: Meet Positives Herpes Dating.
