Zide Siegel Tabor & Spigel | ZSTS, a law firm based in Glen Burnie, MD, is pleased to offer their services in criminal and traffic cases. It is always advisable to seek the expertise of a Maryland criminal defense attorney in order to have the best possible outcome in a case.

Being charged with a crime can be terrifying and have a bad effect on an individual?s family, employment and future prospects. Regardless of the nature of the accusations, the state will have already begun building a case against the person, which means that a rapid response is crucial. Fortunately, the lawyers at Zide Siegel Tabor & Spigel will aggressively and carefully represent the client throughout the process. They can provide a case with the assistance and attention it needs to produce the best outcome possible for their client, especially given that they have more than 20 years of dedicated experience in criminal defense. The firm has experience in defending a wide array of criminal charges, including DUI/DWI cases, drug related crimes, theft, violent crimes, weapons offenses, traffic citations and probation violations.

A criminal DUI conviction can result in severe fines, the loss of a driver's license, probation and perhaps jail time. Drug crimes come with harsh punishments for both misdemeanor and felony violations that can ensue from drug possession, distribution, production and other charges. Theft can be tried under many degrees of theft accusations, but even the least serious ones can result in jail time and have a long-term impact on employment. Violent crimes can take many forms as well. To guarantee the best defense and mitigation for a specific case, crimes like homicide and assault charges, including sexual and domestic abuse, require professional representation.

Weapons offenses come with harsh penalties as well. Strict Maryland laws on gun control can include mandatory jail time minimums for even seemingly minor firearms-related charges. Traffic citations can seem like a minor issue, but under the Maryland laws, it can result in the assessment of points, hefty fines, the loss of a driver's license due to MVA proceedings, and possibly jail time. Probation violations too are best handled with the guidance of an experienced Maryland defense attorney. If proven in court, violating the terms or conditions of a judge?s probation can result in very strict penalties, including additional incarceration. The attorneys at ZSTS take criminal defense very seriously, and their goal is to minimize the adverse consequences a client may face as the result of their charges.

ZSTS also points out that traffic infractions often need expert representation, as the repercussions of being stopped for a driving infraction may be more severe than anticipated. A little traffic violation may end up costing an individual thousands of dollars over time, depending on their situation. An individual can face a license suspension if alcohol was involved. If accused of causing an accident that resulted in wrongful death or personal harm, an individual could be subject to severe civil penalties as well as criminal proceedings. In any of these situations, the best course of action would be to seek the guidance of an experienced traffic ticket attorney or defense attorneys, such as Robert A. Siegel or Josh Tabor at the ZSTS law firm. They possess the expertise and legal understanding required to vigorously refute the accusations made against their clients ? and will defend a client?s rights and refute every aspect of the prosecution's case.

At ZSTS, the firm?s top-rated attorneys assist individuals and families across Maryland to confront and resolve family law, bankruptcy and criminal legal matters. The firm understands the unique obstacles clients may face and aim to uncover a workable solution for them as well as their families. Clients can rely on the compassionate and dedicated guidance of ZSTS attorneys to address and ultimately accomplish their objectives. By taking the time to learn the unique aspects of the case, the team of seasoned negotiators and litigators will develop a personalized legal strategy that meets the client?s needs and goals.
