October 26, 2022 -
SJ Winn Construction, a roofing contractor based in Connecticut, has received high praise from their community, and the company wishes to express their gratitude for this outpouring of support. The team says that they keep track of all comments left by customers, both online and off, as this helps them improve their services as time goes on. While critique is an important aspect of this, SJ Winn Construction also uses positive comments to determine which services are already delivering on their customers? expectations.

?It is easy to spot when things go wrong,? states Scott Winn of SJ Winn Construction, ?but it is important to know when to stop as well. Our crew works hard on every project you bring to us because we understand what your home means to you, and we want to know that we?re doing as good a job as we expect. Positive feedback is appreciated just as much as critique.?

Comments from customers tend to highlight the company?s commitment to ensuring a hassle-free project at all times. Customer service is a cornerstone of the experience offered at SJ Winn Construction, and this means keeping them up to date with all developments, being honest and transparent about pricing, clearing any confusion a customer may have regarding their roof?s needs and so on.

Tom K. says in their SJ Winn Construction customer review, ?Scott and his crew replaced my large and complex roof this summer. The roof came out perfect. We have had leaks from ice dams for years, nothing this year after they replaced the roof correctly. I had a lot of landscaping close to the house, they made sure not to damage anything and kept the jobsite very clean.? As many other reviews have also done, the company received a full 5-star rating for their work.

Megan T. also says, ?Scott and his team helped when three trees fell on our home. His team was there the day we called to make sure the roof was covered over immediately to avoid any further damage. Scott helped us through the process with the insurance company and got the job completed in a timely manner. I would recommend using SJ Winn Construction!?

A solid roof is essential to keeping a home safe from the elements and small issues can turn into bigger problems over time. As professional roofers in Torrington CT who have spent years working with local residents and businesses, SJ Winn Construction has seen numerous roofs being ruined unnecessarily simply because relatively minor issues were not resolved in a timely manner. As such, they encourage their community to be proactive whenever they notice a problem with their roof. In many cases, simply taking a look at the roof can be enough. However, should there be any reason to doubt the roof?s integrity or structural stability, the best course of action is to contact a professional and request a roof inspection.

A customer who approaches SJ Winn Construction for this will find the company all too willing to give their property a look. Such inspections also carry no further obligation for the customer to accept whatever services the company recommends (should their team uncover any problems), but SJ Winn Construction is confident that homeowners will choose to make sure their roof is fully secure sooner rather than later. The company provides free roof estimates as well, so a homeowner need not incur any expenses simply to find out if their roof needs repairs.

However, should the roof need professional attention, customers will find they prefer SJ Winn Construction to handle the job. This is due to the fact that the company always sends its best to every project, and they employ premium materials to ensure their work will stand the test of time. This potent combination is all a homeowner needs to be fully confident in their roof?s integrity once more.

The team can install asphalt shingles, tiles, synthetic slate shingles, and more, and customers are invited to visit their website for a full breakdown of their services. Alternatively, they may contact the company directly to speak with one of their experienced contractors. SJ Winn Construction can also be reached via social media.
