

Triton Announces Background Checks For Ontario Businesses

November 23, 2015

November 23, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Triton Canada has announced new background check services for businesses in and around the Ontario region. Based in Toronto, Triton provides extensive background searches for companies looking to hire employees.

A Triton background check can include criminal checks as well as references, credit checks, and employment and education verification. A spokesperson for the company states, "It's critical that you know who you're hiring, and that's why Triton is here. We will run the necessary checks to ensure that applicants are being completely honest about their past and their qualifications."

Background checks help employers to reduce turnover and costs related to hiring, and can help to provide for higher levels of productivity, and workplace security, which Triton says is an integral part of why they provide these services.

"You have to know your applicants, really know them," states a Triton spokesperson. "You can't just assume that everyone is going to be completely honest, and many companies have hired people that were dangerous because they did not perform adequate background checks on them beforehand." The company states that a criminal record check can help to make workplaces safer by allowing businesses to avoid personnel that could be considered dangerous.

Education history verification is also important according to the company, and can help employers to avoid hiring applicants who do not possess the right qualifications for the positions. The company offers businesses fast turnarounds to enable them to get through the hiring process quickly, and the company states that their fees for these checks are competitive. They offer a low cost guarantee to businesses, as well as individuals requesting background records.

In addition to hiring service checks, Triton Canada also provides a number of individual services for landlords and others who may need to find out the history of an individual before engaging in any type of relationship. They offer a full suite of services to give employers and individuals a look at driving records, corporate information, international background, and other aspects often needed for business or personal situations.

More about Triton Canada, including a complete list of the background check services they provide, can be seen on their official website.
