The New Knowledge, a business in London, United Kingdom, is proud to have recently been featured in an article in the Oxford Times. As a prominent and highly respected newspaper read across the country and even abroad, it is felt that this is a true sign of the excellent work their distance energy healing coach, Robert Ginsburg, is able to do. Since the publication, Ginsburg has already seen an increase in the number of people coming to him for spiritual guidance and healing. Further information is available from <http://www.thenewknowledge.com/>.

"I practice what is known as the Levashov system, developed by Russian physicist, Nicolai Levashov," says Robert Ginsburg himself. "While a lot of people are skeptical when it comes to the metaphysical, the fact that The New Knowledge was featured in the Oxford Times has gone a long way towards breaking through those misconceptions."

The Oxford Times article describes what the Levashov system is, which is what Ginsburg uses to find energy disturbances in patients, which could suggest health issues. It discusses in great length the fact that he is able to offer treatment remotely, regardless of the patient's geographical location. The Oxford Times article is available on http://www.oxfordtimes.co.uk/business/profiles/9034597.Harnessing_good_vibrations/ for further information.

The fact that the method has been mentioned in such a prominent and respected journal, often used by academics, goes a long way towards scientifically supporting it. "There is actual science behind these methods," says Dr. Ramna Guptar, who works in a London hospital. "While we are still trying to figure out exactly how it works and why it works, we have significant evidence to see patients benefiting from it. Even if it were to be proven to be a placebo effect, this effect is sometimes as beneficial to patients as what modern medicine is, if not more."

Robert Ginsburg encourages everybody to look into what the healing method is and how it can help them. Some details have been provided in his YouTube video on https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCSeY4O4RfQSDpzLbuhy_eJw.
