Solicitors In Romford Launch New Website

November 24, 2015

November 24, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

McCorry Connolly Solicitors, a legal office in Romford, Essex, United Kingdom, started a partnership with web marketing company Lead Generation Websites some years ago. As a result of this partnership, the lawyers in Romford started experiencing an increase in online inquiries. To enable them to better meet with demand, they requested Lead Generation Websites to redesign their site, which has now been launched.

"Solicitors, traditionally, don't work online," says Roisin McCorry from McCorry Connolly Solicitors. "However, we understand that our clients are searching for information about us online and they want to know the legal processes available for them by looking online as well. This is particularly true now that Legal Aid is virtually non-existent and people simply cannot afford to visit solicitors anymore. Thanks to Lead Generation Websites, we now have a fully functioning site that clients and potential clients alike can use in order to contact us."

When it comes to solicitors Romford residents have long been very happy with the work done by McCorry Connolly Solicitors. They cover a large number of legal areas, including family law, conveyancing, wills and inheritance, employment law, business law, and commercial property law. As such, they offer a one stop shop for all legal issues. Details about each of these areas of law have been included on the new website.

The site also highlights some of the testimonials left by previous clients. "I would like to thank Roisin for all the help, skill, and guidance she gave me whilst going through an acrimonious divorce earlier this year," says Philip Hall. "She gave me confidence and belief that all would be well and settlement would be reached, which it was. The dedicated team are also a great asset to her practice and nothing ever seems too much trouble for them."

The new website for McCorry Connolly solicitors in Romford, designed by Lead Generation Websites, is fully optimized for mobile use as well and can hence be accessed through any device. It includes an easy to use call back form, where clients can indicate what the nature of their issue is and request a call back from the appropriate legal representative.
