Commonwealth Waste Solutions, a septic system services company based in Chesterfield, VA, wants to offer some tips for how residents of Mechanicsville, VA can keep their septic tanks working in optimal condition during the winter months. This is because the septic tank might freeze during extreme cold weather and this may cause extensive damage to the septic tank, which will be very costly to repair. Furthermore, the sewage pipes may burst and cause raw sewage to be spilled inside the home or in the yard. Frozen pipes can also lead to backups in the plumbing system, where sewage water can find its way into the home, which is not just inconvenient but may also pose health risks for the members of the household. More about Commonwealth and its services can be gleaned by visiting their Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/CommonwealthWasteSolutions>.

One of the helpful tips offered is to have plenty of septic tank cleaner on hand because this can help in keeping the tank running smoothly during the winter months. The septic tank cleaner is a useful product for keeping a septic tank properly maintained because it helps to break down waste, boost water flow, decrease odors, and ensure that the septic tank remains in good condition.

Another tip is to ensure that the pipe connections leading to the septic tank are free from leaks and blockages. This is vital during the extremely cold season because pipes can freeze and burst open. It is advisable to have them inspected before the cold sets in and contact a professional plumber if any problem with the pipes is encountered.

It is also advisable to ensure that the septic system is not blocked by ice or snow because this can result in the septic tank backing up or overflowing. Any snow buildup near the tank should be cleared with a shovel and signs for the presence of leakage or blockage should be checked.

Family members should also refrain from flushing down the drain anything that is not biodegradable, such as coffee grounds, cooking oil, and other kitchen waste. These items can cause blockages in the pipes or the septic tank and the resulting damage can be very expensive to repair.

During the holiday season, it is expected that homeowners will host many visitors. This means more people using the toilet and drain. It would be a good idea to advise everyone to avoid flushing paper towels down the drain or toilet because they don't break down easily and may result in clogs. Environmentally friendly paper towels or flushable wipes should be used instead.

And finally, homeowners are advised to monitor the septic tank levels regularly and add more effluent if necessary. Effluent is a liquid that can be used to prevent the septic tank from overflowing.
