

Queens Ladder Accident Lawyer Keetick L. Sanchez Explains the Laws on Construction Workplace Safety in New York

November 29, 2022

JACKSON HEIGHTS, NY - November 29, 2022 -

Queens ladder accident lawyer Keetick L. Sanchez (https://accidentlawyer-queens.com/queens-ladder-accident-lawyer/) releases a new article explaining the laws on construction workplace safety in New York. The lawyer mentions that ladder accidents in the US construction industry caused an estimated $24 billion annually. More than 22,000 people were injured in ladder-related injuries in 2020. This is why ladder falls are known to be the second most fatal cause of equipment-related falls after scaffold falls.

?A workplace accident can cause significant injuries that require medical intervention. As such, injuries can cost workers time off from work, aside from medical and rehabilitation fees. In cases where a worker is injured to the point of disability, returning to the same occupation may not be possible,? the Queens ladder accident lawyer says.

The lawyer mentions that New York is home to one of the largest construction industries in the US. New York?s metropolitan area reported one of the highest employment in the construction industry in the country. However, this industry also has the most dangerous jobs. This is why state legislators make sure that the safety of the workers should be prioritized.

Attorney Keetick L. Sanchez adds that the Premises Liability Laws in New York require that property owners and contractors should exercise a duty of care to their workers. When contractors are negligent towards safety protocols mandated by law to protect the safety of their workers, they are breaching their duty of care.

In the article, attorney Sanchez says, ?As pieces of equipment, manufacturers who do not follow safety standards in the production of ladders may also be held accountable for accidents. Workplace accidents, especially those that are largely preventable like ladder accidents, can cause significant physical and financial hardships to individuals. It is only reasonable for the injured party to seek damages in compensation.?

Lastly, attorney Sanchez emphasizes the importance of having a skilled ladder accident attorney if a person is injured in a ladder accident at work. Having an experienced lawyer may be able to help the client understand their rights and receive compensation for the pain they suffered.
