December 06, 2022 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Blingle Premier Lighting in North Fort Worth, TX, is excited to announce that residents can depend on their services, from design to takedown, when they want to brighten and beautify their backyard or surroundings with an outdoor lighting installation for events or for celebrating holidays. They offer a wide range of lighting options, such as: residential lighting; landscape lighting; dock lighting; low voltage LED lighting; deck outdoor living lighting; string lighting; path lights; accessibility lighting accent lights; patio chandeliers; and more. They offer a simple process for every lighting project: design consultation; lighting demo; written proposal; contract and scheduling; installation; maintenance; and takedown.

The design consultation process can be done in person or virtually with one of their design specialists, who will strive to understand the kind of project that is desired by the client. After the completion of the consultation, they will provide digital images of the property with the proposed lighting design installation, which allows the client to see how the finished lighting project will look like.

In the second step, they will employ the provided photos to produce a computer-based lighting demo for the client. At this particular point in time, it is possible to make some adjustments to the design to make sure that it truly represents the client's vision of what the lighting project would look like.

In the third step, Blingle will submit a written proposal to the client with an estimate of the cost of the project and the services that they can offer. During this point in time, possible changes can be made to the project and the services to be provided before finally proceeding with the project.

Once the client has approved and accepted the Blingle Premier Lighting proposal, they will prepare a contract and then schedule the installation. The fifth step is the actual installation of the lighting. The client need not remain on-site for the whole duration of the project but it is recommended that they are present when they start the installation to make sure that they will be able to find the required outlets.

The sixth step is the maintenance of the installation. They provide both product warranties and workmanship warranties. Thus, any time there are any issues, clients can contact them and their lighting experts go to the location and troubleshoot the project and not extra cost for the client.

And the seventh step is the takedown of the lighting installation. For instance, for Christmas lighting projects, the takedown will start in early January. However, for those who want to extend the period, they can simply discuss with Blingle the desired extended rental period during the consultation and the designer will include this in the estimate.
