

Perth Settlement Agents Extends Operating Hours for Better Quality of Service

September 01, 2023

PERTH, WA - September 01, 2023 -
WA-based LEAD Settlement Agents Perth, a settlement agency that operates across the state capital and the whole of Western Australia, announced that they had expanded their operations until the weekend. The never-ending increase of settlement agency seekers is why they have decided to work until Saturday afternoon. For more information about LEAD Settlement Agents Perth, visit their official website.

For the settlement agency, their decision to work six days a week is the best solution to keep the calibre of their performance despite handling almost twice the matters they typically received daily before. Their operation on Saturday is seven hours to give their members enough time to rest until Monday. They believe the scheme would work well and enable them to test themselves working under pressure.

Senior Lawyer & Conveyancer of LEAD Settlement Agents Perth, Kristy Fletcher, stated that they always want to try to work on weekends. ?Every time we take our lunch together, we have this weird conversation about what it feels like to work on weekends. We get used to working on weekdays, while some work almost seven days a week with little rest. We have this thought in mind that instead of going to parties or shopping at our favourite malls, what if we are here at the office on the weekend, doing what we always love to do? I think the universe heard us, and here we are. I view it as a challenge rather than a burden.?

The sudden increase in demand for settlement agents in the state is an unexpected event that caught many settlement agencies in WA off-guard. Despite that, most agencies are coping with it with careful strategic plans. Spending more time in the office is one of the best strategies to battle the current phenomenon. It is better to work longer than to compromise the quality of a company's services to its clients.
