Roswell, GA based Revitalize You MD is advising the community to take a look at their botox treatment for gummy smiles. Revitalize You MD provides a number of services, such as IV Therapy, Botox, Weight Loss and Juvederm to the residents of Roswell and the surrounding areas.

Rachael Clark of Revitalize You MD says, ?Your smile is such an important part of who you are, and anything that affects your smile might affect your self-confidence and self-esteem. This means that those who are dealing with a gummy smile may have some difficulty in social interactions. But with botox, gummy smiles don?t have to be a concern for you anymore.?

As Revitalize You MD explains, a gummy smile ? also known as excessive gingival display ? refers to when there is too much gum tissue showing above the upper teeth when someone is smiling. This unfortunate condition can make lips and teeth appear smaller than normal and distort the facial expressions of those dealing with such smiles.

Gummy smiles are caused by a number of reasons. This can include genetics or even a person?s approach to dental hygiene. Common causes include: genetics, bone structure, long or enlarged gums, problems with the size of the teeth, hyperactive muscle that elevates the upper lip or even a thin upper lip. The good news, however, is that gummy smiles can actually be treated relatively easily with modern science.

Depending on the exact cause of the gummy smiles, such as hyperactive upper lip muscles, botox can be used to effectively treat the problem. Since botox acts as a muscle relaxant, it reduces the muscles? activity when it is injected into the affected area. A small Botox injection at both sides of the nostril and nose to mouth lines will help weaken the muscles response and reduce the gummy smile effect. The procedure is minimally invasive and will actually begin to show results within just 5 to 7 days. As with most botox treatments, the treatment requires no downtime to recuperate, and patients can resume their daily activities straight away.

Clark says, ?With just a little bit of botox, you can discover a whole new smile, and with it, your self-confidence and self-esteem. There is a reason why botox is the most popular non-invasive, non-surgical cosmetic procedure: it is effective. Many people have successfully used botox to treat their gummy smiles, and it is an easy choice to make because of the quick treatment time, how fast it works, satisfaction with the results and how long the results last.?

As Revitalize You MD acknowledges, botox is often thought of in a negative light, and there is misinformation about the toxic nature of botox. While it is true that the main compound used in botox (botulinum toxin) is primarily derived from a bacterium called Clostridium botulinum, Botox on its own has undergone a series of processes to become the cosmetic injectable that it is today. The Botox treatments applied to the facial muscles are not the same as the raw byproduct produced by the bacterium. This means that botox treatments are perfectly safe and completely harmless. Further, at Revitalize You MD, botox services are also highly regulated and are only administered by certified aestheticians. Specific dosages are given to ensure that the body reacts accordingly.

Revitalize You MD has done a lot for their patients? cosmetic needs, and the results are clearly evident in the clinics? reviews. Joshua P. says in his review, ?I have been going to Revitalize You MD for over a year now for testosterone hormone therapy and IV Vitamin Therapy. Their treatment and staff have turned my life around. I also have referred my girlfriend to them for Botox and lip fillers. Dr. Lucy does such a fabulous job with her. She?s like an artist painting a masterpiece. This clinic is a part of my family with their professionalism and genuine, caring spirit.?
