Miami T-bone collision lawyer David H. Charlip (https://charliplawgroup.com/miami-t-bone-collision-lawyer/?page_id=4880) releases a new article explaining T-bone collisions occur in Florida. The lawyer mentions that T-bone car accidents are a type of side-impact car collision that occurs when one vehicle hits another on its side. There are a lot of ways where a T-bone collision can occur. They can occur at an angle or head-on. Side-impact vehicle collisions can also be very fatal.

?Due to the impact of these crashes, T-bone collisions can result in severe injuries and even death. T-bone car accidents cause 40% of all car collisions that result in hospitalization due to serious injury or death. According to a study conducted by the University of Michigan Crash Response Information, approximately 3.18 million broadside car accidents occur in the United States annually,? the article from the Miami T-bone collision lawyer says.

The lawyer explains that T-bone accidents are also known as direct broadside accidents. Because the vehicles make a ?T? shape when they collide, the term T-bone was used to describe this type of collision. T-bone accidents can also be greatly damaging because there is no window of opportunity for the drivers to avoid the collision.

Attorney David H. Charlip adds that because of the shape of the cars involved, it can be fairly easy to determine which car struck the other. The lawyer says that it is important to seek the help of an experienced T-bone collision lawyer before making any decisions about the case. An attorney may be able to help the victim investigate the details and evidence related to the accident.

In the article, the attorney Charlip adds, ?Filing a claim for an accident usually involves having an adjuster evaluate the claim's validity and whether the value requested matches the damages incurred. It may be more beneficial to seek the help of a board-certified trial attorney as insurance adjusters tend to adjust differently for personalized cases compared to a mass market law firm that warehouses car accident claims.?

Lastly, the personal injury attorney emphasizes the importance of having a skilled lawyer when it comes to matters such as filing an injury claim after a car accident. An experienced personal injury lawyer may be able to help the victim receive the compensation they deserve.
