Irvine, California based United Van Rentals has recently announced the expansion of their service areas. The company is expanding their base in Orange County, California and Las Vegas, Nevada to now serve Los Angeles and various outlying areas around Los Angeles County.

Louis Della Penna, business manager for United Van Rentals, states, "We believe that this will be a great move for all involved. We'll now be picking up customers right at the airport in one of our comfortable passenger or cargo vans."

Della Penna says that many customers had inquired about whether the company offered Los Angeles van rentals, so the time seemed to be right for the expansion. "Our drivers were always being asked when we would be offering rentals in the Los Angeles area, and now we are happy to oblige our customers with the services that they have requested," he said.

The company provides van rentals perfect for families, sports teams, businesses and more. They offer van accommodation for seven to 15 people, and have a fleet of vans ready for dispatch.

Della Penna states that their vehicles are designed and specifically chosen to service their customers. From smaller vans for bachelorette parties to larger vehicles that will fit multiple business associates traveling to the same meeting, he says that they have all of their customers' needs covered with transportation anywhere in Los Angeles County.

A small, family owned and operated business, United Van Rentals has been in operation since 2009. They will be providing van services from the airport to any number of Los Angeles venues and offer airport locations wherever customers may be located in LA County, including LAX, Burbank and Long Beach.

Della Penna says that the company couldn't be more pleased with the expansion. "We're all glad to have finally gotten our service area expanded," he states. "This is just one more way that we can show our customers that their service and satisfaction have always been our top priority."

More about the company, including a list of locations and venues that they provide, can be seen on their official website at unitedvanrentals.com.
