Alpha Therapeutics, a pharmaceutical CBD products manufacturer based in Arizona, is urging those suffering from joint and muscle pain to try out its CBD topicals to get some much-needed relief.

Alpha Therapeutics is known for the manufacture of high-quality broad-spectrum CBD products. Since the company?s doctor-formulated products don?t contain any THC, buyers don?t need a prescription from a medical marijuana physician to reap their benefits. The result is a range of products available in several concentrations and application techniques that give patients an easy way to heal using CBD.

One of Alpha Therapeutics? most popular products is a topical pain stick that has been designed to provide pain relief to isolated joints and muscles. The plant-based anti-inflammatory absorbs quickly through the skin and directly relieves the affected area. Depending on the size of the application area, every serving contains up to 2000 mg of CBD and up to 1000 mg of CBG, the precursor to CBD.

The founder of Alpha Therapeutics, Geoff Dada, talks about how the company?s popular CBD topicals came to be by saying, ?Our mission is to lead the industry in bringing the highest quality organic CBD products to the marketplace. Though customers love our extra strength and regular strength CBD oils, we wanted to create an equally effective alternative for those who prefer to apply it directly to their skin rather than ingest it. Thus, the Alpha Therapeutics CBD Pain Stick and Healing Balm were conceived. Just rub these topicals into the skin where you experience pain. For the best results, we also encourage you to rub it in the areas where the pain radiates. With a healthy dose of CBD and CBG in each application, you will be delighted at just how soothing their pain relief effects are. The products also carry a Certificate of Analysis (CoA) ensuring that they meet Alpha Therapeutics? high standards of quality control. So, if your job or hobby leaves your joints and muscles in pain, please head over to our website and get yourself the perfect CBD topical to relax with.?

The Alpha Therapeutics CBD Pain Stick has received several perfect 5-star reviews from buyers online. One reviewer says, ?The topical application seems to get right to the "spot" instantly. I would highly recommend the combination of the drops and the stick together.? Another reviewer praises the product as well as the company?s customer service by saying, ?Everything about this purchase was amazing. The product finally brings me some seriously needed relief from neck pain so I can sleep at night. The Customer Service surpasses ANY I have seen in a VERY long time! I am a forever customer and recommend it to anyone I know looking for natural pain relief! Thank you!?

Alpha Therapeutics harvests plants that have high amounts of CBD to bring its customers natural, raw, healthy benefits for optimum relief from chronic pain. Moreover, the presence of CBG, a cannabinoid stem cell that provides an added level of pain relief, also requires Alpha Therapeutics to harvest the plant when it is young before it matures and turns into compounds such as CBD.

Since the company focuses on creating broad-spectrum products, it only uses raw plants, not their distillate. This means that Alpha Therapeutics does not filter or heat the plant since heat changes its properties. Instead, Alpha Therapeutics uses a CO2-based extraction method to process the plant without damaging it. This ensures the highest quality ingredients in every Alpha product, preserving the ?entourage effect.?

Alpha Therapeutics? products contain terpenes, the building blocks of essential oils, due to their clinically-studied analgesic properties. They also contain cannabis flavonoids that are proven powerful antioxidants and possess anti-inflammatory properties. The other ingredients in the company?s topicals include coconut and lanolin.

Readers are encouraged to check out the range of other CBD products from the company including its Regular Strength and Extra Strength CBD Oil and Calm Sleep, a CBD-based sedative to induce deep sleep.
