Queens criminal defense lawyer Keetick L. Sanchez (<https://accidentlawyer-queens.com/criminal-justice-attorney/>) releases a new article discussing the different misdemeanor offenses in New York. As experienced criminal justice attorneys, the team at K L Sanchez Law Office is dedicated to providing valuable information and legal representation to those facing misdemeanor charges.

According to the Queens criminal defense lawyer, "When you are facing criminal charges in Queens, the consequences can be daunting. A criminal record may impact your future ability to get a job, find a place to live, or even apply to a school of your choice. This may affect your entire future. Don't leave your representation to chance.?

The legal team at K L Sanchez Law Office has extensive experience representing clients facing misdemeanor charges. Their website now includes updated information on the types of misdemeanor charges in New York, potential penalties, and the legal process.

Attorney Keetick L. Sanchez mentions that misdemeanors in New York can lead to sentences of anywhere from 15 to 364 days imprisonment. New York City courts have a reputation for imposing less severe penalties for misdemeanors, as well as possible probation periods depending on the charges and the criminal record.

Some common examples of misdemeanors in New York include assault and reckless driving. Class B misdemeanors can include offenses such as criminal possession of marijuana and petit larceny. Unclassified misdemeanors can include offenses such as disorderly conduct and drive with a suspended license.

The criminal defense lawyers at K L Sanchez Law Office understand that facing a misdemeanor charge can be overwhelming and stressful. Their website now includes information on the legal process for misdemeanor charges in New York, including arraignment, plea bargaining, and potential defenses.

Lastly, attorney Keetick emphasizes the importance of having an experienced criminal defense attorney if someone is being charged with a criminal offense. Having an experienced defense lawyer may help defendant understand their rights and make sure that they are making the best decisions moving forward.
